ROGERS FINDS RAY OF HOPE IN 1930 FOR THE DEMOCRATS

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 1.—I have read New Year predictions till I am blue in the face about the great future of Standard Oil, Stay Froze ice chest, chewing gum, hot water bottles, B u t t D u r h a m, Madam Ginsberger's f a c e cream, reducing belts, and one-man machine guns, but I have yet to see one word of what 1930 holds in store for the Democrats.

And that's the very thing that makes me believe us Democrats may get a break in the coming year. I base my faith on the fact that 98 per cent of a predictions are wrong, and the fact that it's an off year in politics and all off years are Democratic years.

Yours,
WILL.

Dry Enforcement Fight In Capital Is Heated Issue

Wet And Dry Forces In Congress Greet New Year With Prohibition Living Issue

BOTH SIDES ARE BADLY SPLIT UP

Senator Borah Contends That Dry Law Is Not Being Properly Enforced

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—While sounds of rather moist revelry echoed across the land, the wet and dry armies of congress greeted the new year today with a belief that prohibition and its enforcement, or modification, will become a living issue of 1930.

While all hope of modification lies in the dim, distant future, both armies anticipated a real battle in congress this year over enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and its enabling act, the Volstead law. The warfare probably will start as soon as the house and senate return from holiday vacation.

Cannot Be Avoided
The struggle can scarcely be avoided since congress within a short time must appropriate huge sums for maintenance of the prohibition enforcement establishment. If the drys do not raise the issue, by continuing their own little private war, the wets will bring it to the fore for the purpose of moulding public opinion against prohibition, even if they are without hope of early success in modifying the Volstead act or changing constitutional prohibition.

The recent warfare within the dry ranks, provoked by Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, has left the prohibition forces with a divided leadership. One group of dry leaders support Borah and his attack upon present enforcement conditions.

Many Commendatory Letters Are Received About State Convention

Perhaps no convention held in New Castle in many years has so impressed visitors with New Castle's convention ability, as did the convention of the Pennsylvania State Educational association held here on December 26 and 27. New Castle people felt that the city had done itself proud and a justifiable pride made itself apparent at the close of the convention.

LITTLE NINETEEN THIRTY MAKES FINE LANDING

Landing with the grace of an eagle, a landing that was a perfect three-point performance, little Mister Nineteen Thirty dropped in on New Castle this morning just after midnight, radiant and enthusiastic, lightly clad, perhaps, but filled with an enthusiasm to start the job that was vacated shortly before by a kindly old gentleman whose whiskers were tangled up with his shoe laces.

Nineteen Speakeasies In New York Find Bright New Padlocks On Doors Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—That sizeable proportion of New Year's population which celebrated New Year's Eve with a roar and a bang awoke with a slight headache today, but with the exception of begrimed confetti, broken horns and torn paper hats in the streets, this was the only reminder today of one of the gayest and-of-the-year celebrations in recent times.

Nineteen speakeasy proprietors found themselves starting the new year with shiny new padlocks, presented in a series of raids in the bright light district.

This activity on the part of prohibition agents, however, failed to stem the tide of merrymaking, and from soon after dinner last night until Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen's 3 a. m. curfew and afterward, this city was plunged into a riotous celebration to usher in the New Year.

Cabarets Crowded.
Cabarets, night clubs and hotels were jammed to capacity as the midnight chimes tolled the passing of another year, and the annual demonstration in Times Square took place with as much noise as ever, if not more.

Failing To Report Liquor Knowledge Declared Felony

Person Who Buys From Illicit Dealer Liable Under Law, Judge Says

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 1.—Any person who sees liquor in possession of another and does not report the fact to the proper authorities, is as much a felon as a person who manufactures or sells whisky, in the opinion of Federal Judge Louis Fitzhugh of Illinois.

In 1790 congress passed an act making witness to a felony who does not report it a felon also, and the Jones "5 and 10" law makes manufacture, sale or transportation of liquor a felony, Fitzhugh stated in an opinion handed down here yesterday.

"Any person who buys a drink of liquor from a bootlegger and does not make a report of the matter to authorities has committed a felony, and is equally as guilty as the person making the sale," he said.

"Any one who knows that a neighbor, friend or relative possesses liquor for beverage purposes and does not report it to officers of the United States is a felon."

Lad In Bandit Case

Telling his story in as matter of fact manner as an adult, little Donnie Schroeder, five year old son of Mrs. Irene Schroeder, told of how his "mamma shot two policemen." The lad's story was the one thing needed to mark definitely, Mrs. Irene Schroeder as the woman wanted for the slaying of State Highway Corporal Brady Paul. Donnie was found in a relative's home in Bellaire, O., Tuesday morning at one o'clock.

Steel Worker Retired Tuesday Completes 35 Years' Service On Job

Thirty-five years of faithful and continuous service to his company, was the record hung up by Howard F. Magill of 202 Garfield avenue, who was officially retired from the employ of the Carnegie Steel company with the passing of the old year on Tuesday.

While company books will show that Mr. Magill, who filled the capacity of steel pourer, brought his service to an end on December 31, 1929.

To know that one has continued on one job, to which he was fondly devoted, day after day for almost two decades, is a feat, is reason enough to feel everly pleased but there's something else to Mr. Magill's credit. Not once was he ever late.

Friends of his say that not a turn passed but that Mr. Magill was present at his post, ready to do the work which the company knew he dispatched so well. "Be on time," sort of became a motto to him, and he always lived up to it.

Another characteristic which Mr. Magill possessed was that not once did he ask off solely for pleasure reasons. Only when urgent business in some other town made it necessary for him to attend to it personally did he leave his job, only to be found there again probably the next day.

When placed on retirement, Mr. Magill severed associations with a job he had well fulfilled for the past 24 years. The ten previous to that were spent in apprentice work which ultimately led him to the coveted work in steel making.

By continually working toward an object he set up early in his career and because he steadfastly held to it, Mr. Magill acquired for himself a competence that will enable him to enjoy his retirement comfortably.

At the present time no trips are planned by Mr. and Mrs. Magill, but definite plans as to the coming year have not been worked out, he stated yesterday.

Cairo Police Attacked In Dope Peddler Hunt

(International News Service)
CAIRO, Jan. 1.—When police entered a quarter here greatly frequented by dope peddlers and addicts, for the purpose of arresting Abdel Rahman Sabra, drug vendor, the entire populace gave battle to defend the miscreant. Several arrests were made, and the police did get their man, in spite of the unanimously adverse public opinion.

MRS. SCHROEDER STILL ELUDES OFFICERS IN THREE STATE SEARCH

Authorities Believe That Boy In Custody By Police Will Prove Key

Search Is Extending In Many Directions From Wheeling, W. Va.

Spurred on by the finding of little Donnie Schroeder, five year old son of Mrs. Irene Schroeder, thought by the state police to be the slayer of Corporal Brady Paul, officers from Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia have redoubled their efforts to bring the woman and her two male companions in.

In police circles it is felt that the arrest of the Schroeder woman and at least one of the men is but a matter of a short time. Donnie Schroeder has told his story to the police, how his "mamma shot two cops" and with this story and the reputed identification of the woman and two men in the car, the police are in better shape to search for them.

May Not Be Far Away.
It is thought that they are not very far away from Wheeling, W. Va. Both the woman and the two men are natives of the district in and around Wheeling, and if Irene Schroeder is as devoted to her little five-year-old son as she is reported to be, what little maternal instinct she might have will certainly come to the front when she learns that her little son is in the hands of the Pennsylvania state police.

With the finding of Donnie Schroeder, the past record of Irene Schroeder has come to light. Her husband, a brother of the Ray Schroeder now being held in Wheeling, W. Va., deserted her some time ago and is supposed to be in Pittsburgh, Cal.

Following his desertion Irene is said to have been a figure in the Wheeling underworld, and at times worked as a waitress in a restaurant. Her father, Joe Crawford, 65-year-old fish purveyor of Wheeling and Benwood, W. Va., knows little of her whereabouts, he claims. The old man thought she was a saleslady for a beauty preparation and that she was doing well. Her brother Eddie died in Jefferson City, Mo., some months ago. It is thought that Irene and her two companions, Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford, had been out there visiting for the automobile they abandoned in Toledo, O., contained some Missouri license plates.

Visited On Christmas.
Questioned in Bellaire, O., the old fish peddler said he could not credit Irene with participation in the crime. He said that she and Donnie had been at his home on Christmas day and they enjoyed a Christmas celebration together. From Donnie's story, the trio started out that evening and conducted a series of house and burglaries, finally ending with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, the wounding of Private Ernest Moore and the hijacking of R. C. Horton's automobile.

Mrs. Glenn Dague, now a teacher in the schools of West Virginia, does not believe that her husband was mixed up in the crime. "He was always a good husband," she said. However, the statement that he was a good husband is not borne out by the facts police report they as they say that Dague has been Irene Schroeder's paramour for some time, and that the pair is wanted in Wheeling for the theft of an automobile.

New Concord Tip False.
On Tuesday, state police were given what was supposed to be a hot tip on the whereabouts of the Schroeder woman and at least one of the men. It was said that they were in hiding on the farm of Joe Crawford, a brother of Irene, near New Concord, O. Several squads of police, loaded with tear bombs, rifles and automatic revolvers proceeded post haste to the Crawford farm, but found nobody but Joe Crawford there.

The dragnet gets larger with the passing hours. Working out of Wheeling as a storm center, the net spreads out over West Virginia, southern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. Other groups of officers are working out of Greensburg and Butler, Pa., with a number of men still on duty here in New Castle, awaiting developments.

Mother Expected To See Boy Again
"I'll see you New Year's Day." Those are the reported parting words between Irene Schroeder, 21 year old Wheeling divorcee and her son, Donnie, 4, after she had planted a kiss on his cheek then put him out of a car in front of the residence of (Continued On Page Two)

21 Deaths As Result Of Auto Accidents Here

Number During 1929 Establishes A New Record In Lawrence County

EIGHT HOMICIDES WERE YEAR'S RECORD

Eleven Persons took Own Lives—Other Violent Deaths In County

During the year just closed there were 140 violent or sudden deaths in Lawrence county, according to the records of Coroner J. P. Caldwell. Various kinds of automobile accidents claimed 21 lives. Eleven persons committed suicide, eight were murdered, eleven killed by falls, four electrocuted. Various other causes accounted for the balance.

The list of automobile accidents is the largest ever known in Lawrence county. Last year there were eighteen killed in auto accidents, so that the number this year is three more than last. A majority of the automobile accidents resulted from persons being struck while crossing streets, while several occurred when automobiles skidded. In one of the accidents two of the victims were fatally burned following a collision. In another two persons were killed when a car skidded on the Ellwood City road.

Suicides exceed the number last year by four, there being seven in 1928. Methods employed by those who made away with their own lives were as follows: Shooting 6; hanging 3; jumping from high bridge 1; poison 1.

At least three of the eight homicides are yet unsolved. The unsolved cases are Charles Porbon, who was found in a box car at New Castle Junction with his head battered; Tony Rossi, found with his skull crushed near "murder swamp," along the river in Taylor township; George E. Collins, who was found shot in an automobile on the Mt. Jackson road, following a visit to Enon Valley.

William Jones was shot at Wampum, and an arrest and conviction for the crime followed.

Mrs. Stella Seever and Mrs. Catherine Rodgers were shot on the New Castle and Youngstown road, and a conviction of John Seever for the crime, was recently secured.

George Markota was shot at Carbon, dying later in a Youngstown hospital. A conviction of the slayer has also been made in this case.

The latest murder was that of Corporal Brady Paul on the Butler road. It is believed that the slayer is now known and will be apprehended.

There is one case of a man who was found on the creek bank near the Harbor in which the cause of death is unknown. He may have been slain and he may have died a natural death. Indications were, upon investigation that the natural death theory is the correct one.

Another case in which the exact manner of death is not known is that of Stanislaus Rebeck, railroad watchman. (Continued On Page Two)

Winter Dress Bill Important Question

By ALICE LANGELEIR
International News Service Special Correspondent

PARIS Jan. 1.—What price the winter wardrobe? This is the all-important question for every woman and many men who happen to be their husbands—at this season of the year.

By selecting wisely and restricting purchases to the most desirable and useful garments, any woman can be smartly dressed in Paris for a matter of a little less than five hundred dollars.

Imitating the chic Parisienne who is most economical, the first rule is "Do not attempt to much." Fashions alter so quickly that to be really in vogue, a wardrobe should be revised every three months. Such a system saves both time and money and conveys the touch that is never easy of attainment on a limited dress allowance.

First and foremost then is a good top-coat in tweed or other heavy woolen. Well-cut and collared with fur, a handsome one can be found for $150 and sometimes less if the fur is not too costly. It should be warmly lined and of practical color which will match the frocks worn with it.

A fur coat for afternoon and informal evening wear is also necessary. It is nothing short and of marvelous what beautifully-cut fur coats are now being made of unknown but very becoming animals and although they may give more limited wear than an expensive broadtail, mink or sable, the cut is there and warmth as well and that is about all that is needed. Such a coat can be had for one hundred dollars if one does some sharp looking about.

The morning frock in lightweight wool to match or harmonize with the coat should not cost more than thirty-five dollars and a three-piece jersey ensemble for country wear about the same. Two entirely different frocks to match the coat is an economical idea for the ensemble. One, for instance, can be made in light-weight tweed combined with satin or crepe de Chine and the other entirely of jersey in the same design. The tweed coat matches both frocks, of course.

The afternoon dress for tea, bridge or matinee comes in silk, satin, crepe or georgette and will take about fifty dollars from the budget.

One good dinner dress will last as long as the fashion does if properly cared for and should not set one back for much more than the afternoon frock. Evening clothes have so entirely changed that it is wiser to choose a model from a very good house, costing anything from one hundred to two hundred dollars.

With such a wardrobe the average woman will be ready to appear at her best upon every occasion.

The rumor that Clifford McDonald and Hazel Williams are married is false and untrue.

21 DEATHS AS RESULT OF AUTO ACCIDENTS HERE

man at the Grant street bridge. His body was found in the river near New Castle Junction. Whether he fell, jumped or was pushed into the river has not been definitely determined.

There was one other case, that of James McCrea, whose body was found at the foot of a stairway on Moravia street, in which the exact cause of death was not definitely determined. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that he either fell or was pushed down the stairway. The testimony seemed to indicate the former.

There were two deaths during the year which it was pretty conclusively indicated, were due to poison boozes. There were two cases of accidental shooting and another in which a little girl who killed a playmate, was held for disposition by the juvenile court. No final order has yet been made in this case.

There was one case of death by an explosion, a little girl having been killed by the explosion of a carbide plant.

One person was believed to have been frozen to death, the body having been found in a haymow at McConnell's mills.

Four persons were electrocuted during the year and five died as the result of falls of various kinds. Three were burned to death, one was killed by an electric car, and one was killed.

In the cases of the eleven who were killed by trains, nearly all were struck while walking on the track, or by falling off freight cars.

By far the largest number of sudden deaths resulted from heart trouble of various kinds, there being 25 deaths attributable to that cause. Closely allied to it were 12 deaths from cerebral hemorrhage.

There were seventeen sudden deaths from various miscellaneous causes, not attributable to violence of any kind.

The 140 sudden or violent deaths in 1929, compares with 105 in 1928; 127 in 1927 and 171 in 1926.

Of the cases investigated by the coroner during the past year, inquests were held in cases where there was reason to suspect foul play or criminal carelessness. Returns as to cause of death were made in all cases where inquests were held. There was no good reason for holding an inquest.

Eight, and I didn't want to hear his troubles. What did I care for trouble? Bring it on, was my slogan, and did they bring it on?

"Brother, they certainly did," remarked the old man as he stepped aside to allow a reveler to make his way to the landing field. "They not only brought it on in chunks, they handed it to me in bunches."

Much Too Much

"Nobody could carry that load and come out of it the same man as he went in," said Mister Nineteen Twenty Nine. "Gaster wars and disasters, bootleggers and tariff makers, murders and suicides, all-American football teams and a new crop of saxophone players, all of them combined made a package that not even Old Man Atlas could have toted. I'm through, positively, and you can say to that young fellow who is just coming in that I wish him luck."

Saying which, the old fellow stopped a passing motorist and thumbed a hitch-hike somewhere west. His destination was just west, how far he didn't say, but so far that he will never be back.

And while he was thumbing a ride, young Mister Nineteen Thirty, a healthy young buck, full of pep and vigor, was making his first statement to The News.

"I'm here," said he, "and I do not service. I understand that my predecessor was a bit groggy the past few months, but it may have been his lack of training. All the troubles that he has laid down I am ready to take up, and if you happen to know of any problems that need straightening out, give me a ring."

Sounds mighty good, if the kid can carry it through. His reception was all anyone could ask for. Many of the churches held watch night parties, theaters had midnight shows, parties, dances and gatherings, all of them in honor of the new king. The weather was mild, no rain, no snow, no ice, just a mild January morning that permitted of light coats and light dresses without the danger of epizootic or pneumonia.

He's here, folks, Mister Nineteen Thirty. The king is dead, long live the king. This makes a pair of kings, but King Nineteen Thirty seems to have the call.

Back of him inexperience, youth and enthusiasm. Ahead of him problems, troubles and work. Plenty of them, too much of some of them, perhaps, but for the next 365 days the young man will not only see the wheels go around, he'll be responsible for seeing that they do go around.

Young Bonini's action in embracing religion, in confessing his sins and in volunteering to marry the Moneta girl not only has stemmed the tide of popular revulsion against him, but has gained for him an increasing number of friends who seek to find mitigating circumstances for his act in slaying the girl that he now avers went away from the bride of his recent marriage.

Entire pages have been devoted by the Buenos Ayres newspaper to the crime. The papers point to the irony of the Argentine marriage law which declares that "the woman has the obligation to live under the same roof with her spouse; and should she not do so, this may be demanded of her by statute."

LETTERS ARE RECEIVED

de a large convention. This delusion was smashed into bits when they arrived and after seeing the convention activities and the manner in which these activities were presented, they have expressed their commendation in no uncertain tones.

A few of the letters from over the state follow:

Lock Haven, Pa., Dec. 30, 1929.

Dr. Clyde C. Green, Superintendent of Public Schools, New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Friend Green:—I congratulate you upon the fine arrangements you had made for the meeting of the Pennsylvania State Educational association in your city. It took an immense amount of work and I heard on all sides, compliments for you and the teachers of your city upon the fine plans you had worked out in the entertainment of members of the association attending your meeting.

I thank you again for the special efforts made in securing for me my reservation at the hotel. With every good wish, I am,

Most sincerely yours,

Dallas W. Armstrong, principal.

Supt. C. C. Green, New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Supt. Green:—

I want to express to you and your corps of assistants my hearty appreciation of the excellent setting provided for our annual meeting of the P. S. E. A.

The exhibition of work in the Senior High school was of most excellent standard. The variety, quantity and excellence equalled, if not surpassed any I have observed. The music provided was much appreciated. The children in the Christmas pageant were dear. This is just a little note of appreciation hurriedly written before I left Friday evening.

Cordially,

Walter L. Phillips, Supt. West Chester, Pa., Schools.

Ambridge, Pa., Dec. 30, 1929.

Superintendent C. C. Green, New Castle, Pa.

My Dear Superintendent Green:—

Permit me to express my congratulations to you upon the successful meeting in your city. I particularly want to congratulate you upon the very fine exhibit of school work in the corridors and school rooms of the Senior High school. I regret that it was not possible for everyone of my teachers to see this fine exhibit.

Yours very truly,

Samuel Fausold, Superintendent.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 30, 1929.

Dr. Clyde C. Green, New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir and Friend:—

I wish to take this opportunity to say that the P. S. E. A. convention held in your city last week was handled with exceptional smoothness and efficiency. The arrangements for all concerned were fine.

I wish to further comment on the art exhibit. That exhibit in the Senior High was superior to any I have seen in the last 18 years at our N. E. A. conventions.

You and your entire force should feel proud of such accomplishments.

Yours very truly,

Buell Snyder, Representing the Macmillan Co.

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 30, 1929.

Mr. Dear Dr. Green:—

Although I didn't see you in person to express my sincere appreciation for the courtesy and kindness that I enjoyed during the convention I want to assure you that it was in the hearts of every one of our delegation from Johnstown, to comment thus.

There was evidence on every hand of your own helpful, energetic direction and your colleagues and fellow townsmen responded nobly. I am sure that every one went away from New Castle with the kindest feelings toward you and your school system and with the favorable appraisal of the educational values that you have achieved.

With best wishes for the new year, I am,

Sincerely yours,
James Killus, Superintendent.

Teachers Get Credit

"It is the teachers of the New Castle schools who deserve the credit," said Dr. Green today commenting upon the favorable reaction from the visitors to the convention. "They demonstrated in a remarkable way just what a smooth organization can do. Every man and woman in this force of ours was anxious to do a little more than his share and the manner in which the convention passed off is certainly a credit to them."

"As superintendent of schools it became my privilege to act in the capacity of general chairman. No general ever won a battle singlehanded and no general chairman ever staged a convention singlehanded. It is nice to receive these congratulatory letters, but I want the people of New Castle to know that their teaching force, most of them New Castle young men and women put this job over. I am proud of the citizens of this city feel a pride in their accomplishments."

Marries In Face Of Life Sentence

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 1.—Facing a life sentence for the murder and kidnapping of his beautiful sweetheart Virginia Donatelli, the young Argentine slayer, Julio Americo Bonini, has been married in jail to Maria Moneta, a former object of his affection with whom he had lived up to his meeting with the Donatelli girl.

So great was the popular interest created by the finding, in the muddy backwaters of La Plata river of first the torso, then the limbs and later at a distant point the head of Virginia Donatelli, that a movement has gained headway with the press and the public for the revision of the death penalty for murder which had long ago been abolished.

Young Bonini's action in embracing religion, in confessing his sins and in volunteering to marry the Moneta girl not only has stemmed the tide of popular revulsion against him, but has gained for him an increasing number of friends who seek to find mitigating circumstances for his act in slaying the girl that he now avers went away from the bride of his recent marriage.

MOON'S COLOR AT TOTAL ECLIPSE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

After the moon has passed entirely under total eclipse, it usually takes on a deep gleaming copper hue. This effect is produced by sunshine passing through the atmosphere surrounding our globe which is refracted—bent in—and so strikes the moon with light that has been filtered through the earth's spherical cushion of air. When the moon passes squarely through the earth's shadow, it makes a journey of about 5,700 miles, or a little more than two and one-half times the diameter of the moon. Since the orbital velocity of the moon is nearly 37 miles per minute, it may take two and one-half hours for it to pass through the earth's shadow.

probably being because stores are closed. And then too, people cannot be blamed for staying in their homes on a wet day such as this.

No work is being done of the new Epworth M. E. church for the past several weeks, because of the bad weather. Work will continue when the weather conditions are better.

MRS. SCHROEDER STILL
ELUDES OFFICERS IN THREE STATE SEARCH

her father, Joe Crawford, at Bellaire, O., last week.

But it is unlikely that the mother who's son has branded as a slayer, will keep her promise.

The child is here—cared for by the State Police. He is guarded as zealously as the new born son of a king, and while it is true that every care is being given him, from his lips have been drawn the entangling statements, innocently expressed, that may help send the trio to their death.

And every now and then as he describes the robberies and the shooting of Paul and Moore, the little chap suddenly holds up his finger as though to maintain silence and remarks:

"Keep your eyes open and use your head."

Donald is only four but he shows the intelligence of being eight. He can recite verse after verse of poetry and says that the poem was taught him by his slayer woman, a woman who was deeply attached to her offspring but who has shown the instinct to kill anyone who stood in her path.

Donald was put out of the bandit car at Bellaire, Friday night as the snow covered the city of Bellaire. Knowing that he was at the home of his grandfather, Tom Crawford, he raced to the door, rapped and within a moment he was in his grandfather's arms.

While the grandfather was taking him to another relative's home, Chief of Police Moran questioned the grandfather and the child was taken into custody. State police and highway patrolmen here were notified and a squad left for Bellaire.

The little child, as he scribbled on papers, laughingly described how the Butler store had been robbed how he had crouched below the dash board so he could not be hit by flying bullets and of the gun battle in Butler road and the theft of the Horton car in Adams street, this city.

Wrapping the child in two overcoats, officers took the child from the Bellaire police station and placed him in an automobile. Every now and then he would say:

"Keep your eyes open and use your head."

The squad desired to pay their last respects to the late Corporal Paul and came via Hickory to New Castle. When they entered the Hickory home containing Corporal Paul's body the little child was permitted to gaze on it.

The child arrived here late yesterday afternoon and immediately was guarded from the sight and visitation of all persons excepting those designated by state police and highway patrol. A woman immediately furnished the care that the boy required and police worked in relays as guards.

He wanted an airplane. It was bought. He asked when he would be given the pigeon that had been promised him and it is likely that before the day is over he will be given a pigeon, for every effort is being made to keep "Donnie", as his mother calls him, from worrying.

The little chap did not ask for his mother once yesterday. He gave all the evidence of having been trained to have patience and still believes that his mother will visit him today—New Year's day—as she promised, and according to reports from Bellaire the mother was deeply attached to him.

From Donald, Irene's son, it was learned that the Chrysler automobile had been put in a garage, where, he could not say. It is also said that while in flight they stopped at a Monaca, Pa., restaurant and from him came the information that his uncle, Tom Crawford had been wounded.

Little Donald said that one of the bullets had struck his Uncle Tom on the hip and that the killers car had been run into a sideroad. He lowered his lips and the wound was given temporary treatment. His mother wanted his uncle to see a doctor but his uncle refused.

Donald it is said also told them that a bullet had passed through the top of Glenn Dague's hat and that he laughed about it. According to the boy's story he was felled by the shots in front of the automobile and Paul was shot at the automobile but kept firing as he faced uneven odds.

The little lad said that the two men and his mother got into the automobile in Adams street.

But it isn't likely that his mother Irene will keep her promise to visit him New Year's day. He is cared for tenderly yes, but also with a determination on that he is one of the keys to one of the most fiendish murders in the annals of Lawrence county history.

Last night the place where little Donald is kept was guarded and his whereabouts today are kept secret.

Captain Max, Troop D, State Police, Butler, Pa., today stated that there have been no new developments in the search for Irene Schroeder, Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford, slayers of Corporal Brady Paul and the wounded or Private Ernest Moore, last Friday in Butler road.

made effective and that dries should take the lead in promoting enforcement of the law. Another group felt enforcement conditions are good and should be improved quickly, without recourse to publicity or public debates between dry leaders.

Leadership Divided

The wet forces similarly found their leadership divided. One group of wet leaders hoped to split the dry army by providing further dissension in the dry ranks. Another group of wets felt the modificationists should keep out of the present squabble in the belief that wet intervention might heal the dry chism and reunite all the dries against the wet cause.

Leaders of both causes were waiting for some move from President Hoover as a result of the recent dry warfare. It was thought the President might speak as a sequel to his exchange of letters with Senator Borah. Thus far, the White House has kept the correspondence secret and Borah declined to release it without the President's sanction.

Hoover May Act

It was learned through that the President wrote Borah first and that in his reply, Borah told the President what he thought of present enforcement conditions. It was thought the next move would be up to the President.

The Idaho senator meanwhile was showered with letters and telegrams commenting on his recent declaration that prohibition was not being properly enforced.

Most of the letters, it seemed, came from persons approving Borah's attitude. Some prohibitionists however chided him for making a public issue of enforcement and advocated silence on the part of the dries.

Dries Split Up

The dries on Capitol Hill were likewise divided. While Senator Jones (R) of Wash., author of the "five and ten" law, disapproved Borah's public utterances, other dries approved them. The latter attitude was stated by Senator Frazier (R) of N. D., thus: "I was glad to see Borah stir up the prohibition enforcement situation. It's a good thing to have the question agitated and to have a little light on enforcement. We may get better men in the enforcement work and better enforcement as a result."

All the talk however will have little effect on the dry law. Both sides were agreed modification of prohibition is years away if it ever comes. But both sides were agreed that the question of enforcing the dry law, while a dormant issue in 1929, will be a live one in 1930.

Evidently Mr. Hoover's plan is to leave the world court idea lying around in plain sight as the senate won't shy and snort when he is ready to clinch it on.

IS HERE

And with it goes forth the heartiest wishes to our many good friends that the New Year may be filled with Happiness and Prosperity for you and yours.

Shipbuilders Race Building Warships

VALLEJO, Cal., Jan. 1.—More than 500 husky shipbuilders engaged in constructing the $10,000,000 cruiser Chicago at Mare Island Navy Yard are engaged in a strange race.

They are contesting with fellow workers at Puget Sound Navy Yard, Bremerton, who are building the same type of cruiser, for honors in completing the first vessel.

The keel of the big man-of-war was laid at Mare Island on Sept. 10, 1928, three months after work started on the cruiser Louisville in Bremerton.

The Puget Sound shipbuilders were slightly in the lead, but the Vallejo workers hope to christen their ship before the Louisville takes the water.

It's a big job, requiring about 45 months in all, but the graceful lines of the formidable Chicago are already taking shipshape form.

Manned with nine 8 inch guns, the powerful Chicago is expected to reef off 32.7 knots an hour on her trial run.

When completed, the Chicago will be the flagship of the U. S. cruiser fleet.

Indiana Prisoner In Good Movie Get-Away

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 1.—A prisoner here stepped into one door of an automobile and right out through another door to freedom, in typical movie grand stand style.

The prisoner, Joe Foster, 50, was being taken to an Ohio city from Sullivan, Ind., by Sheriff J. W. Williams of Sullivan.

The sheriff and his prisoner stopped to eat in a West Washington street restaurant here.

When they were through eating, the sheriff stopped at the cashier's desk to pay the bill.

"I guess I'll go on out and get in the car," the prisoner said.

"All right, I am right behind you," Sheriff Williams said.

Foster marched out, across the sidewalk and opening the door of the sheriff's car got in. But he didn't stop. He opened the door on the other side of the car and kept on going.

The sheriff thought his prisoner was in the rear of the car until he looked.

Foster was being returned to Ohio to face a charge of child desertion.

Prisoners Wished "Happy New Year"

Friends Couldn't Help Using Old Time Felicitation On Visitors Day

Wishing prisoners a "Happy New Year" at the county jail may seem like a bit of irony, but that is just what happened yesterday. It was visitors day at the jail. There were an unusually large number of visitors and they invariably wished their friends a "Happy New Year," as they left. They seemed to think that this was the proper thing to do, although the start of the new year, at least, did not appear to be very propitious for the prisoners.

There are now 54 prisoners in the county jail, despite the fact that all of those who were sentenced to other institutions at the December term of quarter sessions court have been taken away. The average year opens with 43 men and 11 women in the county jail. The number of women is the largest for some time.

Although the prisoners are not very enthusiastic about the way they are starting out the new year, the majority of them hope to make a better finish, and this is where the happiness will eventually come in.

Court's Opinion Refuses Omer And Hedad New Trials

Case Growing Out Of Marriage Of Mary Bshero Who Was Under 16 Years Old

In opinions handed down by Judge James A. Chambers, new trials are refused Albert Omer, alias Abdul Omer, and Albert Hedad. This is a case in which Omer was alleged to have married Mary Bshero against the wishes of her parents. Mary being under the age of sixteen years, Hedad was connected up in the case by the allegations that he had helped to get the girl away in order that Omer might marry her.

When the case was brought, the charges against the men were taking for a minor child for the purpose of prostitution and taking a minor child for the purpose of marriage, the former being the first and the latter the second count on the indictment.

The jury found them guilty only on the second count of the indictment. Applications were then made for new trials. In the court's opinion it is cited that Mary Bshero apparently left the city willingly to marry Omer. The latter was in Inkster, Mich., where Mary went to marry him. Hedad became mixed up in the case in getting Mary away, he being a friend of Omer.

Wesley Methodists Enjoy Program

Four Part Program Of Entertainment And Religion Enjoyed New Years Eve

The members of the Wesley Methodist church enjoyed a watch night service last evening in the church, in which the program was a quadruple affair. An entertainment of music, readings and prayer supplemented the celebration of the wedding anniversary of the pastor, Rev. J. C. Baker, and his wife, which was Christmas day.

At eight o'clock the program opened with a song and a prayer by Rev. J. C. Baker, after which a clever skit, "The Months", was given by 12 girls of Margaret Morrison's and Hazel Matthews' classes. R. E. Johns sang a beautiful solo, readings were pre-sented by Myrtle Cox and Marjorie Moore, after which Mr. Watkins Matthews gave a rendition on his musical saw; piano numbers were played by Miss Sudley and Joe and Anna Patterson furnished instrumental music throughout the evening, and Prof. Lawrence Thompson sang. At this time Rev. C. G. Farr took the opportunity to present Rev. and Mrs. Baker with a beautiful bouquet of flowers in commemoration of their wedding anniversary, which occurred on Christmas day.

After serving refreshments the program continued with the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" and a prayer by Rev. C. G. Farr. A quartette consisting of W. H. Britton, Mrs. Beulah Mottinger, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pattison, presented a number and Mrs. Mary Wylie and Mrs. Edith Davies sang a duet. At the close of this part of the program Mrs. W. H. Pattison, on behalf of the W. C. B. class, presented Mr. and Mrs. Baker with some silver.

Communion was then served to the congregation by the Revs. Farr and Baker, with the dismissal at one minute past midnight.

Young People Enjoy Program

Third United Presbyterian Young People See The New Year In With Reverence

A beautiful pascent, "The Open Portal", featured the watch night party of the young people of the Third United Presbyterian church last evening, when a large crowd gathered to see the new year make its bow.

Dr. John Coleman of Geneva College made the address of the evening, his talk being on "The Grace of Grief", using as his theme, "Let's Go Again", developing the idea of being ever and always at it, being true to our creed. His talk was brought right up to the minute by applying his ideas to the modern day.

Watkins, C. H. Matthews, pleased with selections on his musical saw, Carolyn Book rendered a pleasing vocal solo and Helen Kyle gave a reading. Games of various sorts were played and a delicious lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Just as midnight struck a prayer of consecration was offered by John O. Woods, a theological student, after which the happy gathering dismissed, wishing each other all the joys and happiness of the New Year.

Regional Board Enters 1930 With Added Strength

Membership Of Allegheny Regional Board Now Placed At 1456

As an indication of the continued interest of users of rail transportation in the activities and objectives of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board, that organization received and approved a total of 173 new applications for membership.

This brings the total membership of the board to 1456.

The 1929 administration was given a vote of confidence at the board's December 12th meeting by unanimous re-election of all executive officers to serve during 1930, as follows: General chairman, Royal E. Cook, traffic manager, H. J. Heinz Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.; vice general chairman, J. M. Bevelius, general traffic manager, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.; chairman, executive committee, R. Bruce Robinson, general traffic manager, Central Alloy Steel Corp., Massillon, Ohio; vice chairman, executive committee, Charles Donley, traffic manager, U. S. Pottery Assn., Pittsburg, Pa.; general secretary, Ernest H. Gilbert, president, Gilbert-Davis Coal Co., Morgantown, W. Va.; and secretary, Charles Brooks, assistant to the district manager, American Railway Association, car service division, Pittsburgh, Pa.

F. G. Minnick, general manager Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., continues as chairman of the board's railroad contact committee and C. F. Wolcott, district manager, American Railway Association, car service division, Pittsburgh, Pa., as vice chairman.

The personnel of the executive committee of 1930 has been strengthened from the standpoint of commodity and geographical representation through election of 14 additional members, thus bringing the total membership of the committee to 81, segregated by state representation as follows: Pennsylvania, 34; Ohio, 16; West Virginia, 6; and Maryland, 3.

Shipbuilders Race Building Warships

VALLEJO, Cal., Jan. 1.—More than 500 husky shipbuilders engaged in constructing the $10,000,000 cruiser Chicago at Mare Island Navy Yard are engaged in a strange race.

They are contesting with fellow workers at Puget Sound Navy Yard, Bremerton, who are building the same type of cruiser, for honors in completing the first vessel.

The keel of the big man-of-war was laid at Mare Island on Sept. 10, 1928, three months after work started on the cruiser Louisville in Bremerton.

The Puget Sound shipbuilders were slightly in the lead, but the Vallejo workers hope to christen their ship before the Louisville takes the water.

It's a big job, requiring about 45 months in all, but the graceful lines of the formidable Chicago are already taking shipshape form.

Manned with nine 8 inch guns, the powerful Chicago is expected to reef off 32.7 knots an hour on her trial run.

When completed, the Chicago will be the flagship of the U. S. cruiser fleet.

Court's Opinion Refuses Omer And Hedad New Trials

Case Growing Out Of Marriage Of Mary Bshero Who Was Under 16 Years Old

In opinions handed down by Judge James A. Chambers, new trials are refused Albert Omer, alias Abdul Omer, and Albert Hedad. This is a case in which Omer was alleged to have married Mary Bshero against the wishes of her parents. Mary being under the age of sixteen years, Hedad was connected up in the case by the allegations that he had helped to get the girl away in order that Omer might marry her.

When the case was brought, the charges against the men were taking for a minor child for the purpose of prostitution and taking a minor child for the purpose of marriage, the former being the first and the latter the second count on the indictment.

The jury found them guilty only on the second count of the indictment. Applications were then made for new trials. In the court's opinion it is cited that Mary Bshero apparently left the city willingly to marry Omer. The latter was in Inkster, Mich., where Mary went to marry him. Hedad became mixed up in the case in getting Mary away, he being a friend of Omer.

Wesley Methodists Enjoy Program

Four Part Program Of Entertainment And Religion Enjoyed New Years Eve

The members of the Wesley Methodist church enjoyed a watch night service last evening in the church, in which the program was a quadruple affair. An entertainment of music, readings and prayer supplemented the celebration of the wedding anniversary of the pastor, Rev. J. C. Baker, and his wife, which was Christmas day.

At eight o'clock the program opened with a song and a prayer by Rev. J. C. Baker, after which a clever skit, "The Months", was given by 12 girls of Margaret Morrison's and Hazel Matthews' classes. R. E. Johns sang a beautiful solo, readings were pre-sented by Myrtle Cox and Marjorie Moore, after which Mr. Watkins Matthews gave a rendition on his musical saw; piano numbers were played by Miss Sudley and Joe and Anna Patterson furnished instrumental music throughout the evening, and Prof. Lawrence Thompson sang. At this time Rev. C. G. Farr took the opportunity to present Rev. and Mrs. Baker with a beautiful bouquet of flowers in commemoration of their wedding anniversary, which occurred on Christmas day.

After serving refreshments the program continued with the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" and a prayer by Rev. C. G. Farr. A quartette consisting of W. H. Britton, Mrs. Beulah Mottinger, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pattison, presented a number and Mrs. Mary Wylie and Mrs. Edith Davies sang a duet. At the close of this part of the program Mrs. W. H. Pattison, on behalf of the W. C. B. class, presented Mr. and Mrs. Baker with some silver.

Communion was then served to the congregation by the Revs. Farr and Baker, with the dismissal at one minute past midnight.

Young People Enjoy Program

Third United Presbyterian Young People See The New Year In With Reverence

A beautiful pascent, "The Open Portal", featured the watch night party of the young people of the Third United Presbyterian church last evening, when a large crowd gathered to see the new year make its bow.

Dr. John Coleman of Geneva College made the address of the evening, his talk being on "The Grace of Grief", using as his theme, "Let's Go Again", developing the idea of being ever and always at it, being true to our creed. His talk was brought right up to the minute by applying his ideas to the modern day.

Watkins, C. H. Matthews, pleased with selections on his musical saw, Carolyn Book rendered a pleasing vocal solo and Helen Kyle gave a reading. Games of various sorts were played and a delicious lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Just as midnight struck a prayer of consecration was offered by John O. Woods, a theological student, after which the happy gathering dismissed, wishing each other all the joys and happiness of the New Year.

THE "NEW" YEAR

THE New Year will be a repetition of old experiences, a reinforcement of old laws, a reaffirmation of another common saying which is that human nature changes little and human relationships are much the same today as they were when the first philosophical writer first set his chisel to work on the stone tablets whereon were written the observations and records of that far-off time when the human race first began to discover the antiquity of the planet and the unswerving laws that govern it.

We enter upon the New Year, to be sure, but in it we shall be responsible to the same forces as heretofore. We will be rewarded as we pull ourselves into harmony with divine statutes and punished as we disregard them. There are but two lamps by which our feet may be guided, those of experience and conscience. If we profit by one and hearken to the other, we shall avoid many of the pitfalls that lie ahead; the same old pitfalls, in the same old places and hidden in the same old manner. If we play the game in accord with the rules laid down by that "still small warning voice within," we shall escape the old retributions for the same old errors that men and women has been making for thousands of years.

A BIG JOB FOR EUROPE

One of the reasons why foreign nations are endeavoring to throw economic restrictions in the way of the United States may be found in government statistics showing that the value of American exports, exclusive of raw materials, is increasing at a much faster rate than value of manufactured goods imported by the United States. This gain has not been accomplished at the expense of competing countries, but is due to the improved buying power of overseas markets and the quality of American salesmanship.

It must be remembered, however, that the day has only just passed when European countries regarded the United States as a source of raw materials only. No one abroad was hurt when England, France and Germany bought from us what they themselves could not produce, and sent the manufactured goods back to the United States. The increase in domestic production has served to make this virtually impossible and now American salesmen are going abroad in increasing numbers to sell the surplus. This new state of affairs has much to do with the formation of European cartels, the demand for tariff restrictions against American products and the hope of lowering in some degree the American tariff schedules.

The fields in which the gains have been made are those in which the United States can hardly be rivaled, and the American market is still to attractive a plum for foreign producers for them to risk declaring actual economic warfare.

THE COW DOES HER PART

The heart of the food and health problem is not sanitation but nutrition. It is the undernourished child, or adult, for that matter, who is the first to fall victim to disease and the first to die when disease strikes. Undernourished children make poor pupils and undernourished men and women make poor workers. School taxes spent for the one and wages paid to the other are largely wasted. Their minds and bodies cannot function efficiently, and all inefficiency is wasteful.

Communities and sections having an adequate supply of pure, rich milk have cause to be thankful. It is the most nourishing of foods and, extensively consumed, builds up an industry which richly endows all about it. The dairy business creates healthy, happy children and industrious workers and widespread prosperity. There have been instances where dairy herds alone have saved their farmer owners from ruin in time of agricultural depression.

Carefully controlled experiments demonstrate that milk added to an already adequate diet results in better general health and greater resistance to disease. While these facts are generally known there are countless people who renounce milk as soon as they abandon the bottle, with results altogether too obvious.

POPULATION GAIN IN A DECADE

On the eve of the decennial census year the National Bureau of Economic Research announces an estimate of 119,306,000 as the population of the United States for July 1, 1923, an annual gain of almost one per cent during the decade. The figures are based on births and deaths in the registration area and on immigration statistics.

The significant feature of the growth is the increase in the total population of persons more than fifteen years old, indicating a reduction in child mortality, and the decrease in the proportion of persons fifteen years and older employed in gainful occupation, indicating that relatively more minors are now attending school. If these qualitative features are verified by the federal enumeration in 1930, they reveal a consuming power that should be of more interest to business enterprise than any unanalyzed quantitative showing.

What Business, Mr. Edison?
The Wonderful Automobile.
Civil War? Ida Tarbell.
Crime And Bootlegging.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1929, King Features
Syn., Inc.)

Thomas A. Edison tells President Hoover through the "Illinois Manufacturing News" that "one of the highest duties of the President is to keep the government out of business."

That depends on the kind of business, also on the honesty and efficiency of government.

Mr. Edison wouldn't have the government abandon the postoffice and turn it over to Wall Street promoters. The postoffice is a business. It carries a letter from the southern tip of Florida to the northern tip of Alaska for two cents.

And carries it safely.

New York explodes gasoline in a big way. In the first six months of 1929, the state taxed 774,701.746 gallons of gasoline, not including gasoline used by farmers.

It would have taken 968 freight trains of 80 cars each to carry that gasoline. Who would have believed that when Senator Couzens was investing less than $2,000 in the little Ford car, taking out, within a short time, $30,000,000 as his share?

A coast guard ship chasing a rum-running boat killed three of the four men on board, wounded the fourth. Other rum running killings, here and there, in the day's news.

Rear Admiral Billard warns bootleggers that his cost guard means business. No "soft words" will be used. Rum runners are told they will stop when ordered, or "get hurt."

Ida M. Tarbell, deplores prohibition and asks "Is prohibition forcing civil war?"

Before the Civil War there was a anti and pro-slavery party. Now Miss Tarbell sees a wet and a dry party and repeats the question that Karl Schurz asked five years before Fort Sumter was fired on: "Can this fight be decided without powder?"

The modernization league, perhaps prejudiced, says intoxication is increasing rapidly. Among children the rate of death from alcoholism is higher, and arrests for drunkenness in 1928 were most numerous since 1914.

PROHIBITION is here because it is in the Constitution and there it will outlast any now living.

Jane Addams says, "a great number of young people are drinking from a sense of bravado."

It may be bravado, but that will not help the young people's kidneys, brains or character, unfortunately.

The question for the people is "what can be done about it?"

Thomas Jefferson told the legislature of Virginia, giving a letter of introduction for an English brewer, that he thought light beer and wine the only means of combating whisky.

That idea has been abandoned.

India seeks absolute self-government, suggesting refusal to pay taxes, a situation that worries Britain's labor government, in charge of India, among other imperial matters.

If the well-meaning Mahatma Gandhi has his way India will learn a lesson.

Taxes collected by rajahs, or overnourished dictators, would NOT be used to supply pure water, or fight plague and famine.

There is a fertile field for sowing Russian propaganda, only more than 299,000,000 of the 399,000,000 inhabitants of India wouldn't know what the Russians were talking about.

Governor Roosevelt of New York, asks $800,000 for more prisons and an emergency appropriation of $1,000,000. Why not have separate prisons for young criminals: all under twenty-one, instead of locking them up with the old criminals, to learn their trade more thoroughly.

It happens that very young criminals are the most numerous, dangerous, cruel, and generally given to murder. They need special treatment, which should include some years of hard work, avoided when they took up crime as an alternative.

The head of a New York drug ring included in his private telephone list the number of the distinguished judge whose welcome home dinner was attended by many well known criminals, and enlivened by a holdup.

New York also learns that another judge promoted advertising, legal and other, in a publication that had no real existence, was separate prisons for young criminals: all under twenty-one, instead of locking them up with the old criminals, to learn their trade more thoroughly.

Shakespeare might have put all that in his highly imaginative play, "The Tempest."

You have, gentle reader, about 119,305,999 American brothers and sisters.

We have increased 14,000,000 in 10 years, while keeping out, largely, the "unfit European population that breeds crime," according to advocates of restricted immigration.

But we have not kept out crime itself. We have plenty of that.

Hints and Dints

GREETING
How do you do, 1930, how do you do? For ten long years we've waited patiently for you.

You have a pleasant sound. A figure plump and round. Your symmetry is bound. To make a hit profound. We like your artful grace. Your young and happy face. Bedecked in snow-flaked lace—Ah, you may set our pace.

We accept you as a lady, rather flirty. And for wear or woe, lead on, fair 1930.

Happy New Year!
Happy New Year!

What has become of the old-fashioned man and boys who used to hike out on a snowy morning and make a few honest dollars cleaning off sidewalks. They evidently went out with the saloons.

The question for the people is "what can be done about it?"

Dear Doctor: My husband, who is a very liberal and fair-minded man, has suddenly developed a mania for grabbing all the bed covering. Shortly after we retire he tucks the edge of the covering under his arm and rolls over—wrapping the covers around him en route. This leaves me high and dry. You can understand that this is a source of annoyance and worry to me, especially in the winter time. Can you tell me what causes this, and is there anything I can do to cure him of the habit?

Answer: Your husband is suffering with what is known in the medical world as rollaloma—or what is more commonly known as ripples. This is due to two things. Rolling his own cigars and too much gravel in his gizzard. Increase his spending money so he can buy "tailor made" and keep the sand out of his spinach. Follow out these instructions and everything will be K. O.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

EVEN RAILROADS HAVE LEARNED.

Not many years back the animosity between the railroads of the country and the farmers was intense. Rights-of-way were poorly fenced, if at all, and valuable stock breaking through were killed or so seriously crippled that they were complete losses. In addition, sparks from unprotected stacks of locomotives often set fire to haystacks and buildings. Damage claims for these submitted to the railroads were so long delayed in settlement that the farmers became exasperated.

Evidence of correction of this feeling has been growing. Now the Central of Georgia Railway Co. has declared its intention of purchasing a number of thoroughbred bulls which will be lent without charge to farmers in its territory for the purpose of building up the quality of dairy stock as part of a campaign carried on since 1912 to increase the diversity of agriculture in the states which it serves.

All progress is not in the direction of something new. Some progress is properly backward. If radio listeners could go back more often to the melody of an older day, it would be soothing to tired spirits and restful to over-strung nerves. Jazz is perhaps one of the foremost contributors to present day "nerves."

THE CANCER WAR
War on cancer will be waged on a greater scale than ever before beginning in 1930. The American College of Surgeons, with 6,000 members, will organize new clinics in cities in every section of the country. The attention which this great organization is paying to the deadliest scourge of mankind is a matter of vital and happy significance.

BY-PRODUCT OF KNOWLEDGE
Is there such a thing as knowing too much? A Kansas legislator says radios, airplanes and newspapers are playing hob with the jury system. The people know everything about a case before it comes to trial and you can't get a jury. This legislator is working for a change in the state constitution which will permit the trial of criminal cases outside the counties in which the crimes are committed. But with modern methods of news transmission it won't help much to move into the next county.

NEW YEAR'S

Another year in which to grow.
Another year to build anew.
Some little truth to come to know.
But some little task to do.

Another year in which to seek
The glory which seems far away
To strengthen where it now is weak
The spirit in the mortal clay.

Another year in which to climb
The toilsome steps of life to find
The vision broadening with time,
A gentler attitude of mind.

God grant that I may wiser be
And kinder when this year shall end.
That all I learn shall make of me
A better and a truer friend.

LET'S BEGIN THIS YEAR—
With a determination to make it an improvement over all the rest.

With a confidence in our ability to grow.

With a willingness to forget the hard knocks we got last year.

With some worthy objective raised a little higher.

With faith that goodness and honor pay dividends in the long run.

With a firm purpose to overcome at least one bad habit.

With all of last year's grudges buried.

OH, THESE WOMEN!
By LEOLA ALLARD

A lady with business experience, a big heart, a good head, and a nice family, writes to ask me if I won't just for a Christmas present, say a few kind words for the women who live up salary checks for love and are using every resource to give their children a chance in the world.

It's a fine letter. No bitterness, no selfishness, no "what do I get out of this." I know a few like you, Mr. R. and if it were not for them, the beautiful illusions about home and mother would disappear.

You bet I'll give you a little space. I'll print your letter and tack to it a few hoanessans and God-bless- yous. You're the kind that should make the balm suit girls ashamed of themselves. But you won't. They will go on believing that a big bank account constitutes happiness, and eventually they will dissolve in tears and bitter complaints.

The letter:
"Dear Lola Allard:
"While you are scolding the Breach of Promise collectors and those shrewd heads who regard alimony as a legitimate business, won't you remember us thousands and thousands who are used to have adequate salary checks and gave 'em up for love? We have fine men and we know more about romance than anybody, but our men make only average incomes. The head for detail that gave us the salary checks, stretches the income and as you can see by the papers, Ma and Pa are trying their best to squeeze out enough for a rainy day and a chance for the boys and girls such as they never had. Won't you think of the mothers especially who see their earnings fade away while they build these men and women, teach them honor, decency, fair play? You can't hire a servant by the day to do that as you will do it. Just for a Christmas gift won't you give us poor old girls a hand?"

You remind me, Mrs. R. of the poem called "Mother" where Amelia Burr wrote: "The parts I remember go this way and rest."

"I knew her first as food and warmth and rest,
A sicken lap, soft arms, a tender breast;
Then as fear came into my world, I knew
She was a never-failing refuge too.
Time taught me more and more to comprehend
Her understanding sweetness as a friend.
And as my life's horizon grew more wide,
Her meaning to myself was magnified.
And now so well I know her that I know
The graciousness of her will always
Like daybreak in my spirit, and will be
Through all my life, a radiant mystery."

ANTI-JAZZ MERGER
In this day of mergers no news is better than the announcement that the Radio Corporation of America and two big music publishing houses have formed an organization to lead the public away from jazz and in the direction of melody. The phonograph industry and the talking pictures are to be in on the anti-jazz merger.

All progress is not in the direction of something new. Some progress is properly backward. If radio listeners could go back more often to the melody of an older day, it would be soothing to tired spirits and restful to over-strung nerves. Jazz is perhaps one of the foremost contributors to present day "nerves."

Lions Club Expresses Appreciation Of Gift

Appreciation for a gift which gladdened the hearts of 55 needy blind folk living in widely scattered sections of the county—55 shining coins each worth $10 in gold—was expressed by the New Castle Lions club to Fred L. Rentz, the donor, before a full attendance of the club membership at its meeting Tuesday at noon.

Mr. Rentz contributed approximately $600 in gold pieces to the Lions' blind cause last week, and members voluntarily distributed the cash tokens along with the baskets of food and clothing and other donations given the sightless as a part of their annual Christmas time efforts to promote holiday cheer.

For his manifested interest in the work of the club and the blind program, it sponsors especially, the club, before adjourning, elected Mr. Rentz to honorary membership, the second to be so honored. The resolution read:

"In appreciation of his interest and generosity in the major activity of our club, the blind work, be it resolved that the Hon. Fred L. Rentz be hereby elected to honorary membership in the Lions club of New Castle."

Experiences which the different team members encountered, while passing out the baskets and money were told by Dr. T. M. Shaffer, William Hodgkinson, John Dunfee, W. L. Pander, Dr. J. L. Reed, George Smith, W. O. Williams, B. K. Thacker and Arthur Rees. The club had 12 teams working before and on Christmas day at Volant, Enon, Ellwood and other places in the county as well as the city.

Attorney C. A. Patterson spoke for the club in expressing its appreciation to Mr. Rentz for his part in the program, in behalf of those whose vision is partially or completely impaired. Each member who spoke of their visits to the homes voiced the recipients' outward expression of thanks to both Mr. Rentz and the club.

President E. D. Marvin, who presided, then called upon the honor guest and Mr. Rentz responded with most appropriate words. He said the Lions club is doing the greatest service work of any civic club of New Castle and said he was pleased to be able to share in it.

He spoke of the type of work and congratulated the club upon having the blind cause as its major activity. He assured his future support of the work and said that he would assist in any case where the need arises.

Referring to the membership to which he was chosen, Mr. Rentz declared he considered it an honor and most fully appreciated it. As an honorary member he may attend all meetings of the club, and his yearly dues are free.

The meeting was featured by a solo by W. O. "Red" Williams, accompanied at the piano by Attorney A. L. Shumaker.

Dan Cupid Beats 1928 Record In Year Just Closed

Forty More Marriage Licenses Issued In 1929 Than During 1928

More marriage licenses were issued in 1929 than in 1928 according to the record at the office of Prothonotary R. M. Campbell. This was somewhat of a surprise at the office when the total was figured up as it had been believed that Dan Cupid was laying down on the job. The records show that in 1929 there were 1,045 licenses issued and in 1928 there were 1,005.

Although 1929 came out ahead the contest was surprisingly close only 40 more this year than last. The biggest rush this year came in the first part of the year from January until after June. There has been somewhat of a falling off during the past two months. The biggest month of the year was in June. During the past three months the greatest number of licenses were issued around early food business during the month of December.

The record of licenses does not mean that the couples securing them were all from Lawrence county. A large portion of the number were issued to non-residents. During the past six or six years the number of licenses issued has been around 1,000 each year.

Watched the new year come in on the fly so to speak. As the whistles were starting to blow I was just pulling out of Pittsburgh and if you think some of the Pittsburghers had weren't "fried" last night. They were giving the New Year a hearty welcome and some time this afternoon when they come out of the fog they will know how many others were injured in the crash.

Started the new year off in a hot way, the heat being provided by a hot water heater in the car. Oh tricky, no end. Ever have a hot water heater in your car? The idea is the second hand water from the radiator rushes around to this doodad and a fan blows the heat out into your lap.

This one must have been built to heat the car after running for five or six minutes the car is as warm as a department store in the Christmas rush.

But hot water heat in a car. Fancy that. The wagon is now equipped with electricity, gas and hot water. About the next thing some genius will install telephone service to get in touch with the gas station man. Or to put in a phone call for some of the drivers ahead who insist upon taking their half out of the middle.

Now if the inventor had just put in a wash basin and a towel rack or a needle sewing attachment it would have been even more advantageous.

Somebody told me during the last few weeks that the road through Freedom was repaired and driving was a pleasure down that side of the river. It's the bunk. That piece of corduroy that has been festively called a highway is in the same shape now as it was a year ago, only more so.

You're still wise to cross the river at Rochester and go through Aliquippa and cross again at Ambridge. That is unless you don't care a thing about the springs in your car.

That seems to be about all for today. This paper gets out at noon or thereabouts and one can't be pecking away at columns all the morning. There are other things to do and so with your permission this paragraph closes the first column of the year. And you might make a good resolution to drop something into the hopper here occasionally.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Here it is customers, just as advertised in the papers. Nineteen thirty, in the flesh, not a motion picture or a talkie, here for a twelve month run in personal appearances. Give this little boy a nice big hand.

It was elegant weather Tuesday evening for the ushering in of a new year and the people in New Castle took advantage of it. Imagine having trouble finding a parking place on Mercer street at 2 o'clock in the morning. Believe it or not, and I wasn't waiting for a street car either.

Saw a number of firsts this morning. Saw the first lad with a flat tire struggling manfully on Atlantic avenue about 1:30. It seemed like too gruesome a joke to lean out and wish him a Happy New Year.

Saw what appeared to be a lad trying to have the first accident near the California avenue bridge shortly after midnight. In Pittsburgh. When he passed me he seemed in a fair way to accomplish his desire if that is what it was.

Saw the first drunk of the year at about two o'clock on Mercer street. He had been making his hey, or thereabouts, in your car. The idea is the second hand water from the radiator rushes around to this doodad and a fan blows the heat out into your lap.

Find 8,000,000 French Women Earn Living

By ALICE LANGELIER, International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 1.—One-fifth of France's entire population of 40,000,000 inhabitants are women who work.

Eight million French women are employed in factories, offices, banks, shops on farms and in hundreds of other activities which do not allow them the time to become mothers, complains Mr. Maurice Duval, writing in "La Revue de Madame."

"French men still hold a very false idea of the other sex, considering them only for their epistolical pleasures. This immense number of workers of all kinds have needs and thus the right to exercise their influence by the vote."

The truth is, according to Monsieur Duval that women really differ very little from the men, from a moral point of view, and he would not find it safe to swear that there is more confidence in your charms? Have you caused their hearts to flutter and thus brought trouble into their lives? Are all these good Senators who refuse you the vote unhappy, retired lovers?

"Or have they been brought up to fear the fair sex? I hardly think so, for I have heard that many of them, even the most famous, have had rather exciting lives. Perhaps they are all against mixing women with their business, but is this fair, is it logical? Every worker will answer, 'No.' There are 8,000,000 women workers in France who have the right to vote."

Basifullness is the byear which looms between French and American friendship, according to C. H. Crawford, president of the Hollywood Federal Trust and Savings Bank, who has been sojourning in the French capital.

"It's just natural born timidity," he says. "That's why a lot of Americans don't feel that the French weren't good fellows and that's why the French can't understand us. We're timid with them and they're timid with us. We never give each other a good chance."

I believe that France and the French have an inferiority complex about Americans. And most Americans don't know the language of the lie here as they should. We come to France representing the skyscrapers and millionaires and other fabulous things that Europe sees in us. Often we talk too loudly in cafes and we seem abrupt and rude to the more gentle French. Very often they are a little afraid of us."

Mr. Crawford finds that the situation is not dangerous, in fact it is getting better all the time, but it means perseverance and understanding on both sides.

The French Senate is not the only official body which dislikes the women—that is, of course from a business point of view. The Paris Prefecture of Police likes them very little better, in fact so little, that a law has just been made effective which bans women employees from the Police Headquarters of the Ile de la Cite.

There is no complaint about their work, for they seem to fill the bill to perfection when it comes to what they get done. But there are too many of them around the place, that is where the trouble comes in. Until the new law was made there were three times as many women workers as men which caused a lack of equilibrium.

"Old Ironsides" Of Broadway Theatres Is Torn Down

By DAVID P. SENTNER, International News Service Dramatic Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The famous old Knickerbocker Theatre, landmark of the days when the theatre was the theatre, went down like an old trouper. It was located at 38th street and Broadway.

It's epitaph might read: "A skyscraper got me—not the talkies." True it its caste until the finish, it harbored the voices of legitimate actors in rehearsal until just before the wrecking crew descended upon its hoary memories.

Henry Irvin and Ellen Terry baptized the theatre in "Beckett" way back in '93. It was called Abbey's Theatre then.

Sarah Bernhardt, Anna Held, Maude Adams, Lillian Russell, Julia Marlowe, David Warfield, Mrs. Fiske, Southern, Beerbohm Tree and William Gillette, the great ones of a past generation, walked across the Knickerbocker stage.

And add Maxine Elliott, Julia Sanderson, Nat Goodwin, George Arliss, Marilyn Miller and the ill-fated Jeanne Eagels and Douglas Fairbanks to the star-etched list.

But the house wrecking crew tore it down like an old grandstand.

Laurence Tibbitt, Metropolitan tenor, whose father is a real sheriff in California, played the part of the sheriff in "Girl of the Golden West." He played the role like a sheriff much to the edification of certain of his Italian conferees.

Sixteen year-old Margaret Perry, Park avenue debutante, had her coming out party on the stage. Taking overnight the leading role in "Strictly Dishonorable" when Muriel Kirkland became ill, Margaret was unanimously praised for her noteworthy performance.

Following the recovery of Miss Kirkland, Margaret returned to her finishing school.

Some Recession In Business At County Office

Fewer Deeds And Mortgages Recorded During Past Year Records Show

There has been a steady falling off in the number of instruments recorded at the office of Register and Recorder Jeannette Hutton during the past three years, according to the records at the close of the present year.

Although the decline is not great, it has nevertheless been decreasing. The 1929 record shows 4,791 instruments recorded. In 1928 there were 5,554 and in 1927 there were 5,753.

The record for 1929 shows a drop of 263 from the total of 1928. The various instruments recorded at the register and recorder's office include deeds, mortgages, articles of agreement, charters, commissions for special policemen and commissions for various elected officials, also rights-of-way and some other papers.

The decline in the number of instruments recorded has been largely due to dullness in the real estate market. When real estate is booming there are many transfers of titles, and also many mortgages.

Heat From Tropics For Polar Regions

Heat from the tropics might some day be utilized to furnish warmth in the polar regions has been shown in theory by Dr. Alexander Silverman, head of the chemistry department of the University of Pittsburgh.

The possibility "no more preposterous to think of than it was to think of air transportation several decades ago" the doctor said, is seen in an experiment which he performed with a rod of fused quartz.

The rod, six feet long and half an inch in diameter carried enough heat from a 200 watt tungsten lamp with conical reflector to light a cigarette at the end away from the lamp. Yet the other end was held not touching but close to the lamp and the rod itself was cool to the touch.

Because of the value of fused quartz a method of obtaining it in great quantities and at low cost must precede any large scale experimentation the doctor pointed out.

There is a possibility of so producing it from seashore sand which consists of tiny quartz pebbles. When that can be done and when electric current becomes inexpensive enough to furnish the heat for fusing it the fused quartz can be used for many things according to the doctor.

Fused quartz is the most transparent solid known as far as light heat, ultra violet waves and x-ray forms of radiation are concerned.

Change Shape Of Future Zeppelins

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Jan. 1.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the "Graf Zeppelin" has adopted many English ideas in the construction of the new giant airship which is to be begun in about two weeks.

The new "L. Z. 128" will resemble the "R100" and the "R101" insofar as it will be much "plumper" than the slender "Graf" and will accommodate its passengers inside the main bag in the center of the ship instead of the front cabin which will be reserved for the commander and navigation officers.

The new ship will be about 230 meters long, 40 meters in diameter and contain about 150,000 meters of gas. That is it will be about 50 per cent larger than the "Graf Zeppelin" and approximately as big as the two British airships.

The blessings of Christmas continue for weeks. Every man has an alibi for his own funny taste in neckties.

Spanking Should Be Effective

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

A mother who reads your article on parent problems and is interested in the one on spanking. "You suggested beginning when a child starts running around, or creeping, possibly. How long shall it last, or rather, when do you consider a child too old to be spanked or whipped?" We read of parents spanking children who are in their teens; and recently a girl shot herself because her father spanked her.

"You emphasize one spank or several—which?—on the bare bottom—all right until the child becomes self-conscious. Do you suggest this all ways and on all occasions when a spanking is considered necessary? Circumstances might make these methods seem inadvisable. Company may be present, or the parties may be visiting. Waiting is not giving pain immediately, and taking the child to another room is taking him from the scene of the incident. Of course, turning the baby up and exposing him and spanking him before people might not be embarrassing to the very small child, but it should be to the mother, also I think that affairs like that should be very private between parent and child.

"What is your opinion regarding a warning first, and then spanking for a repetition of the act? Also regarding the whipping of older children. I should appreciate an answer to this in your column.

"A READER." A. We deliberately set out with our three children to teach them some inhibitions by a carefully thought-through scheme of limited spanking, with the hope to abolish bodily pain as soon as "no" was habitually accepted as final. It was never used much, rarely used after the child was three, and not at all after five. Other means were substituted, as isolation or sitting in a chair for a definite time measured by the clock.

I can't imagine myself spanking or whipping my girl of 14 or my boy of 16, not even my boy of seven. The more thought of it is repulsive. Of course, if they had never learned the meaning of "no" and to respect authority, it might be better for me to teach them, even at this late date.

some wholesome regard for authority and for others' rights, than to leave that task to the state, provided I were sure I could attain desirable results. Even then, I could hardly justify spanking children so old. It would be unduly humiliating, and would hardly provide adequate physical pain to bring results. I should still have faith that I could attain results by other means than bodily pain. Nevertheless, if it were a final choice between a penal institution and a whipping by me, I would not choose the institution.

One good lap by the bare hand, low upon the young child's bare, fat thighs, might be enough. Several surface stinging ones all at once might be more effective, depending on the slapper and the slaped.

The average child under two or three better get his necessary spanking (be sure it is necessary) right away, regardless of where he is. If he is old enough to be self-conscious, take him quietly out away from the company for the spanking. Mother's embarrassment is not important. The child is of first consideration. Once the child learns that "no" always means "no" he will not risk the need of spanking before guests.

For the little child under two or three, warning is of little or no value. For the older child it is most desirable. Thoughtful warning or definite threat is fair and effective if parents have character enough not to lie about it.

Famed Bell, Dated 1200, Now In A Rhine Tower

(International News Service) NEUBURG-ON-RHINE, Jan. 1.—The old "Totenglocke" or passing bell of the former Neuenberg Minster, which was overwhelmed by a Rhine flood in 1525, has been placed in the tower of the Catholic church. It bears the date of 1200. During the wars of the Middle Ages and the visitations of the pest it was carried to Basle for safe-keeping.

Courts Put Stop To Titles And Medals

(International News Service) BERLIN, Jan. 1.—The German Supreme Court has decided that titles and medals granted to German citizens are unconstitutional and must be abolished.

The decision was rendered in a suit of the German Ministry of the Interior against the state of Bavaria. Bavaria had been conducting a flourishing business in titles and decorations to anybody who would pay for them. Now the money for the invalid titles must be returned.

Peter's Adventures

MISTAKE FOR A ROBBER

"On dear! This tree is so big and I am so little. Tiny as I am I never can climb it!" cried Peter. "I wish I were myself, again."

No sooner were the words out of the boy's mouth, than Peter began to feel queer. Was he going to have indigestion? Peter glanced at his foot; it looked larger than it had a moment before. Peter flung out his arms—how long they were. Peter's wish was coming true. He was himself, boy-size again. Peter whooped with joy.

"Hurrah!" shouted he. "Now I can scale this tree and pick some of those fine red apples."

Wrapping his legs about the trunk, up the tree went Peter. He was half way up the tree when, bang! something hit him in the eye. Down upon his head and shoulders showered twigs and leaves. They didn't hurt a bit, but Peter wondered where they all came from, and as he paused for a moment he heard a little chirpy voice exclaim:

"Do, for mercy's sake, hide the nest with those leaves as fast as you can! Here comes another robber after our eggs. We lost them last year by being too careless, and I am afraid they are making the silly thing. If I did intend to steal their eggs, I would know right where they were. Then Peter called:

"Don't be afraid, birds! I am a friend, and I am not going to look for your nest. I want to get a few apples to eat. I am so hungry."

Silent for a moment. Then a rustle in the tree-tops as though all the flyer folks were much excited. At last a frightened bird voice questioned: "But aren't you a boy? We have seen lots of them in our lives, and never a one that didn't want to rob our nests. We can't believe you. There was a catch in the sweet bird voice. Peter knew what that meant—fear."

"Did you ever know a boy who understood your language before?" he asked, smiling up at the two anxious fluffy heads peering through the leaves.

"No, come to think of it, we never have," said one of them.

"Well then, I am an exception to the rule. Trust me!" cried Peter, cheerily.

Pictures Scenes Of Hunting Season

Includes Actual Scene Of Hunt In Christmas Exhibit

Wilson E. Carr of 631 Superior street, has at his home a Christmas exhibit that is attracting widespread attention, people from all sections of the city visiting the Carr home to see it.

It is slightly different from the usual special Christmas scene that is attempted in the homes, it having a mountainous background, snow covered, made to resemble actual scenes in the mountains of Pennsylvania that Mr. Carr saw, while hunting deer this year.

The mountain trails, gullies and other characteristics are carried out in minute detail. There, there is a sky scene painted and placed above it, showing many white clouds in the blue sky and an electric effect showing a moon coming up over the clouds.

There is a large Christmas tree ornamented in a pleasing manner with electric lights and the usual equipment in one corner of the exhibit, which covers the greater part of the living room of the Carr home.

Under the tree and spread along the base of the mountain effect is a typical winter country farm scene, with a house, garage with auto in it, barn with horses and cows in and about it, pig pen, corn crib, silo, sheep barn, trees, etc. On the road in front of the place is a bridge, a sleigh with Santa Claus in it, and numerous automobiles and trucks.

The light effects have been arranged in such a manner as to get, especially where the lights in the buildings are burning and cast a soft glow over the surrounding mountainous snow scene.

Mr. Carr has been eight years perfecting the scene, which is one of the cleverest ever attempted here.

TAXES AND VARIOUS THINGS

The other day I listened to a talk coming over the radio of one of our well paid agriculture servants; telling us how to bed our old cows. No good stock caretaker could object to what he advised.

But I doubt if there is one stock owner in this district who has not been bedding his cows with the material at hand as well as he advised.

There is at present a young woman employed by the state instructing the ladies of the district in cooking, although they are famous for being good cooks from every angle they are patiently meeting with her in the hope of learning something more.

She even presumes to be able to teach them how to make better coffee—when who ever heard of any body ever being offered a cup of bitter or ill made coffee along the banks of the beautiful "Coffee Run". In this section there has recently been built two small cement bridges under the direction and supervision of state officials.

After engineer inspectors and local supervisors have got thru with them; and the "State Art Commission" had passed on them, they cost the taxpayers of the state over ten thousand dollars—When a private interest could have built better bridges of the same height and the same dimensions throughout—for one half the money—the cost of the "Art Commission" passing on them alone would be a decided

CLUB TO MEET.
The Junior Bridge club will hold a 6 o'clock dinner in the Penn. Grove hotel Saturday evening. After the dinner the annual Christmas party will be held with an exchange of gifts.

ATTEND CONVENTION.
Twelve members of the editorial staff of the Grove City high school publication attended the state press club meeting held in connection with the convention of the State Educational association at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in New Castle Saturday. These making the trip were Violet Pizer, Joe Smith, Lucy Negri, Betty Albini, Betty McCurdy, Mary Anderson, Dorothea Black, Bob Daugherty, Edgar Holstein, Roth Martin, Carleto Hulbert and Charles Montgomery.

STRICT WATCH IS Being Maintained By Coast Patrols
(International News Service) NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—From Montauk Point to New Jersey, the "dry feet" stood guard Tuesday, patrolling the waters to prevent importation of liquor.

Armed with one-pounders and machine guns, more than a score of coast guard patrol boats, destroyers and the cutter Champlain maintained a ceaseless vigil.

Coast guard officers said there is no chance that any boat will get through with booze.

There had been rumors that three foreign ships, supposedly loaded with rum, were somewhere beyond Montauk Point at sea.

In the last 24 hours the coast guard craft off the Jersey coast have seized several small boats, all deserted after a chase. Some liquor was found in one.

saving—and one of these bridges was not even set straight with either the road or the creek.

Pennsylvania is blessed in the matter of commissions. Commissions that some times have sub commissions and President Hoover is setting us a bad example, of creating one most every day. With the public officials in being reported for 1929, against 11 inhabitants since 1860 with the corresponding increase in taxation, the average farmer after paying his taxes and over head; has a slimmer living than the average laborer; although he has thousands of dollars invested in land equipment and necessary out buildings—Is it any wonder they are dissatisfied with things in general; and smile at the late wise cracks of Will Rogers on Commission etc?

It is my humble opinion, that if our public affairs were managed as we are forced to manage, to make both sides meet, our taxes would be reduced one third, the first lump, and if man power in public life was curtailed as it now is in our manufacturing plants, one half of our public servants would be out of job and our public affairs would be just as well administered.

I would be pleased to see others express themselves—I think it would be interesting.

ARTHUR WRIGHT.

Slight Decrease Shown In Number Of Employees Over Preceding Year

Output Of Industries Shows Slight Increase Over 1927, According To Figures

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 1.—Pennsylvania, the second largest industrial state in the Union and one of the steel and textile centers of the world, turned out industrial products in 1928 valued at $7,331,065,300 according to a compilation made by the Bureau of Statistics of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs and made public today by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward. The tabulations on industry in the state as a whole mark the completion of separate surveys in each of the counties. In 1927 industrial products in the Keystone state had a value of $7,311,665,600, the year 1928 showing a slight increase.

Records filed with the Department of Internal Affairs, according to Secretary Woodward indicate that some industries showed decreased production valuations in 1928 when compared with 1927, corresponding decreases in the number of employees and compensation resulting. During 1928 industry gave employment to 1,339,302 persons while in 1927 the total number of employees was 1,444,726. Wages and salaries paid in 1928 amounted to $2,034,357,500 as compared with $2,055,625,800 in 1927.

Pennsylvania had a total of 13,764 industrial establishments in 1928 and the various plants were operated by 8,731 corporations, 2,906 partnerships and 8,127 individuals.

The vast army of industrial workers in the Commonwealth last year contained a comparative small percentage of wage workers under 16 years. Records filed by the various establishments indicate that only 4,393 males and 8,403 females under 16 years of age were employed in Pennsylvania.

Industry in the state last year represented an invested capital of $5,251,381,600 as compared with an invested capital in 1927 of $5,455,916,600.

Electricity Important
Electricity played an important part in industry in 1928, the survey of the state indicating that the primary horsepower in the industrial establishments reached 8,283,811. Industrial plants used a total of 423,813 electric motors representing 6,637,591 horsepower.

Newspapers Now Appear On Seven Days

MOSCOW, Jan. 1.—The leading Soviet newspapers are appearing seven days a week in accordance with the 360 day working year recently approved by the government. Heretofore the 15 morning papers published in Moscow had no Monday issues. The one afternoon paper appeared Monday mornings instead of Sunday afternoons. Now the "Izvestia," the official organ of the government and the "Pravda," the official organ of the Communist party, publish also on Mondays. Other papers will follow suit in a few months.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

It is hardly possible to understand the complicated wranglings in the senate over the tariff bill, without drawing a sharp mental line between the two sections of the law.

By this I mean that the sections dealing with duties on imports of agricultural products should be placed in one group, and all other imports in the other. For the attitude of the senators toward the two classes is altogether different.

As to the farm product schedules, nearly all senators are agreed. Farm interests have demanded duties on many things that have been coming in free, and higher rates on those that have been protected to some extent. The Republican party pledged such increases, and the president added his personal promise. Democratic senators, with a few exceptions, are favorable to increases in this section.

Thus the disputes in the agricultural tariff schedules are not bitter, and mostly represent differences of opinion as to whether rates are high enough or not.

It is in the other one of our two grand divisions that the battles rage. The question is, shall the tariffs on manufactured goods be revised or not? Shall they be moved up a lot, or only a little? Shall increases be given only to industries in distress because of foreign imports, or to every line of business that can prove it could use the money?

On the other hand, shall the duties on manufactures be kept where they have been since 1927? Or shall they even be cut down somewhat?

It is easy to see what alarm such ideas as the last may well cause in industrial sections of the country. And this is particularly true since the so-called "coalition" of Democratic senators and western Republicans seems to have something of the kind in mind, and has enough votes to control the senate.

But what will eventually happen to the manufactures section of the tariff bill is uncertain. It will be decided in a final battle between the senate and house in a conference committee. And in this battle farm interests are not very strongly involved.

Farmers would be satisfied in most cases, to have the tariffs on manufactures stay where they are. They see no advantage to farming in bringing on an industrial depression in the cities.

But as to the higher tariff duties in the farm section, these will certainly go through. There is no effective opposition to them, and they will surely be found in the completed bill that goes to the president—whatever it does go.

Road Supervisors File Claims For State Assistance

Crawford County Leads In Mileage Sought; Lawrence County Asks Aid On 36.4 Miles

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 1.—Township supervisors in Crawford county lead the state in mileage of road to be improved under applications on file with the Highway department. In that county the supervisors have applied for state-aid in repairing 83.4 miles of road.

Townships in all counties expect Philadelphia are eligible to receive aid from the $6,000,000 township reward appropriation made by the last legislature. Applications have been received from every county save Cameron. The lowest mileage covered by any county that has applied for money is Mountour where the various boards of supervisors will improve 4.36 miles of road.

In Crawford county 40.84 miles of rural road will be graded and drained and 35.85 given a gravel or cinder treatment. The number of bridges over small streams to be built in this county is 20 although Lycoming county leads in this phase of township-reward with 25 bridges.

Montgomery county supervisors in applying for township-reward aid have expressed a preference for concrete construction. They have agreements on file for the building of 15.64 miles of concrete the most of any county in the state. That is approximately a fourth of the concrete mileage to be built with money from the township-reward fund. Westmoreland county supervisors come next with 13.37 miles of brick or concrete pavement.

The supervisors of the various York county townships are high in the mileage of bituminous macadam road they wish to build. Their applications total 22.2 miles with Lancaster county second at 19.1 miles and Dauphin third with 15.9 miles of macadam. The total mileage of this type of road to be built is slightly more than 128 miles.

Lawrence county seeks improvement of 36.4 miles.

State Will Aid Development Work

Will Assist Schools With Development Of Playground Projects In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 1.—A busy year is anticipated in 1930 by the bureau of municipalities, Department of Internal Affairs, for the development of plans for school plots and playgrounds for municipalities. This work is done free for districts that are unable to pay the fees of commercial experts.

During 1929 the bureau prepared plans for approximately 100 school grounds and public parks in the smaller municipalities. This class of work is increasing, bureau officials say, and 1930 is expected to be busier than at any time in the past.

The bureau also cooperates with the Department of Forests and Waters in the development of forest camp sites and also the Highway Department in its roadway planting programme. Landscape designs for many of the State-owned institutions are prepared by the bureau.

Plan New Roof For Capital Building

HARRISBURG, Jan. 1.—The next session of the legislature probably will be asked by the Department of Property and Supplies to provide the funds for a new roof for the capital building. That matter possibly will require $250,000 it is estimated from preliminary surveys.

Within the next few months the State will abandon its power plant at the capitol. This is expected to reduce the dirt and cinders that accumulate on the roofs and corners of the capitol group. In the past it has been necessary to shovel cinders from the roof of the main building.

WHEATLAND, Cal., Jan. 1.—One California town still has today the wooden awnings which characterized pioneer gold camps. That town is Wheatland, and the citizens voted 63 to 27 to defeat an ordinance to force their removal. A week of continuous rain is believed to have influenced the vote.

Paris Taximen Now Have Radio On Automobiles

By ROBERT W. THOMPSON, International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 1.—"Come and take a ride with me in my radio-taxi," hums the new school of Parisian taxicab chauffeurs.

A portable set in the seat next to the driver and a loud speaker opening into the customers' compartment provides music while the meter is ticking off francs.

It's a strictly business proposition. If you must hear a symphony it is necessary to ride for a mile or two. A dance number or a popular song only covers a few blocks.

Spongy couples who prefer a taxi to the parlor sofa now take a whirl around the Bois de Boulogne to romantic rhapsodies.

The chauffeurs say that the perambulating concert dulls the edge of a fare's reaction when he reads the staggering total of francs per kilometre.

So down the boulevards they glide as the jazzy trombones slide.

South African Sheep Raised Without Water

(International News Service)
JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 1.—Eight hundred sheep on the government farm at Graaff Reinet have just had their first drink of water for three years. Many having lost their taste for it turned away disgusted.

The sheep have been the subject of prolonged experiment as drought-resisting animals and during the whole period they have been fed on oil cake and prickly pear only without any form of liquid.

It has been found that prickly pear which hitherto has been regarded as a grave menace to farmers in South Africa where thousands of acres have been ruined by it contains all the necessary moisture to sustain live stock indefinitely.

During the three years lambing and wool yield have been perfectly normal.

Fishermen Set Good Record For 1929

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Jan. 1.—The year 1929 has been a record year for herring fishers. It is estimated that the herring catch of the German fishers alone will total 100,000,000 pounds. Germany uses approximately 650,000,000 pounds of herring a year, or 10 pounds per head of the population. It consumes more than one-third of the entire European catch.

No Time Extension For Motorists Who Have Failed To Obtain 1930 Licenses

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 1.—Punch, out the old—ring in the new!
And that, according to officials of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, means just that—especially as concerns that matter of adorning your gasoline steed with its holiday dress of 1930 license tags.
As the long line of procrastinating motorists wended its slow way past the bureau headquarters here Tuesday afternoon, officials of the Department of Revenue called attention to frequent past warnings that 1929 license tags would outlive their usefulness at precisely 12 o'clock, midnight, Tuesday.
A penalty of $10, plus the costs of the court, awaits the driver who has the temerity (bureau officials are polite and wouldn't say "gall" or "nerve") to appear in his car on the highways or in city streets tomorrow without the new black digits on their yellow background.
Of the entire 48 states, Oregon is the only commonwealth to grant an extension of time for the use of 1929 plates after today.

Invention "Secret" Ordered By Court

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—A court order has locked within the brain of a chemist the secrets of an invention to be worth millions.
Two years ago Heinrich Weber, of Lemberg, Poland, came to this country with a formula for a simple liquid which experts think may revolutionize the coal and lumber industry, and solve the problem of the world's depleting supply of fuel.
Two friends of Weber brought him here with his formula which is said to make coal briquettes at a price far below the usual market. Tests virtually proved its worth, but Weber has been afraid even to patent the secret.
Various coal firms have been interested in Weber's invention, but in

53 Slain During Hunting Season In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Jan. 1.—Fifty-three persons were killed and 210 injured during the hunting season in Pennsylvania which closed recently the State Game Commission announced today.
The fatal accidents show an increase over the 1928 hunting season when 45 hunters were killed and 238 were wounded. During both years the bulk of the fatal and non fatal accidents were during the small game season which closes with the end of November.
This year 12 fatal and 38 non-fatal accidents occurred during the big game season which closed December 15 as compared to five fatal and 25 non-fatal during the 1928 big game season.
The figures for 1929 the commission admits may be increased by later reports as all are not yet in.

Short Lunch Hour Is Changing Paris

(International News Service)
PARIS, Jan. 1.—The American short time lunch hour is fast replacing the usual pre-war two-hour French recess with good results both to worker and employer. Gradually becoming accustomed to the change, it is said that the workers prefer stopping an hour and a half earlier in the evening and certainly more work is accomplished in the end.
Communications have also become so difficult with the growing traffic that a large number of working people are unable to reach their homes for the midday meal and are at a loss as to what to do during the long two-hour period.

While bathing at a French seaside resort, an income tax collector was attacked by a shoal of jelly fish, but one in any such occupation should have known just exactly what to do under the circumstances.—The Port Wayne News-Sentinel.

Rich Folks Of Detroit Await Homey Theatre

By SAM A. MINDELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent
DETROIT, Jan. 1.—A Punch and Judy theatre radically different from the modern run of cinema houses is Detroit's latest means of providing entertainment.
It will be a residential theatre, dedicated to the needs of those who live in the fashionable vicinity of Grosve Point. Its door will open sometime in January and numbered among those who are directly responsible for its erection are Grosve Point's most influential citizens.
The Punch and Judy theatre will seat a total of 600 persons at a performance.

Lounging Chairs.
Five hundred opera chairs will be on the main floor and 100 individual lounging chairs each equipped with a smoking stand will be located in the lodge. There will be no balcony.
Robert O. Derrick who designed Henry Ford's colonial village in Dearborn is responsible for the architectural plans. He has also supervised the building of the theatre.
The grotesque superb effects which are now so commonly associated with the modern movie palace will be missing. Rather the Punch and Judy theatre will offer the atmosphere of an 18th century English town hall. The surroundings will be simple, residential, substantial, luxurious and effective according to those sponsoring the theatre.

To Have Talks.
Mrs. M. J. Kavanagh wife of a manager of one of Detroit's theatres, and herself a stage performer of a few years ago, will assume personal management. She has had stage experience with David Warfield for eight years and was known professionally as Antoinette Walker. She is also credited with one of the roles in Ben Renner's original production of the "Yellow Jacket."
Complete talking picture equipment has been installed. The stage is 30 feet deep and will accommodate any special theatrical event.
The Community Center theatre will offer three shows a day and is endeavoring to lead the way in this unique theatre—which is the first of its kind believed erected.

Historic Relic Is Pennsylvania Find

(International News Service)
LEHIGHTON, Pa., Jan. 1.—A historic relic which brings to mind the days following the Civil war was discovered recently by N. B. Petty of Lehighton when he found a campaign coin bearing the busts of Seymour and Blair. The coin which bore the date 1868 was found at the race track of the local fair grounds.
The back of the relic is the slogan "Central army, uniform currency, equal taxes, equal rights."
At the time the coin was issued, Horatio Seymour, then governor of New York state was opposed to Gen. U. S. Grant and was defeated for the presidency of the United States. With him on the Democratic ticket seeking office in the New Hampshire state legislature was William Henry Blair who was elected.
Just how the piece of copper reached this part of Pennsylvania will probably never be known but a theory has been advanced that it was carried to the race track by the racing gentry as a lucky piece back in the days when horse racing was America's greatest sport.

Political Status In Russia When You Commit Murder

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Jan. 1.—The contrast of social values in Soviet Russia and the "capitalistic" world is seen in a case of marriage for the attainment of social position which is causing a sensation in the Red capital prior to its trial in the courts.
Igor Karchinsky, 50-year-old member of the old bourgeoisie, had been deprived of the right to vote, which means that his chances of existence were rather slim. He was not legally entitled to a place to live; he could not get a job, or register at the employment bureau, or get a food card which would entitle him to buy necessities of life at a reasonable price.
So Karchinsky decided to marry for social position. It meant that he had to marry down rather than up as in other countries. A widow employed in a candy factory consented to have him as the stepfather of her two children. After six months he got back his voting rights as a member of a laborer's family and life once more looked rosy. But he couldn't stand his lowly wife, and he couldn't divorce her without losing his rights again.
In an attempt to get her to obtain the divorce, Karchinsky beat up the poor woman. She dragged him to court. The three justices sentenced him to six months of compulsory labor, which means work for the state with a bare living allowance. Enraged he murdered his wife and her two children with an axe. The prosecutor's office and the press are now debating whether or not the crime should be considered a political murder. If so Karchinsky will be shot. If the court declares it a murder of passion and rage, he will get eight years in prison.

To Be In Style Or Not To Be — That Is The Question

By DAVID P. SENTNER

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—It's getting so that a girl doesn't know whether she is in style or not.
American designers have declared their independence of French fashions.
An ambassador of the French dress-makers asserts such a thing is impossible.
A group of New York society women have organized a league of fashions so that ladies may wear what they really think is becoming.
Two war camps, aimed with epigrams, have lined up over the issue of the short skirt against the long skirt.
Small wonder, everybody is all pins and needles.
The United Cloak and Suit Designers to manifest American independence held a Spring style show, preceding the showing of Parisian styles by more than a month.
The exhibition revealed:
The length of skirts for street wear exactly six inches below the knee.
Coats in ensembles ranging from fingertip lengths to within an inch of the skirt hem.
Skirts reaching a higher waistline. Both tightly fitting and circular lines in new models.
Black predominates, although bright colors in evidence, particularly red and tan.
A trailing mode in evening gown.
Jacques Worth, president of the association of French dressmakers, countered with the following French style memorandum:
Moderation is the keynote of a change in women's fashions.
The skirt will be longer—two Scotch fingers below the knees.

IS THE BEE SO VERY BUSY?

Uncle Sam Finds He Loafs Around Home a Good Deal

FOR thousands of years, perhaps even before the Bible was written or the Roman poet Virgil penned verses glorifying the hive, the honey bee has been looked upon as the paragon of industriousness. When we remark that So and So is as busy as a bee we no longer stop to think just how busy a bee may be.

Is it not possible that the honey gatherer's reputation is just a bit overrated?

That is a question Uncle Sam has been endeavoring to answer. At Somerset, Md., just across the line from the District of Columbia, is situated the Bee Culture Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture. There Director James I. Hambleton and five associates are uncovering the age-old secrets of the hive and among them is the problem of the industry of the busy bee.

More Time at Home.
It was discovered that the honey bee, as represented by the members of a test hive, spent more time at home than in the fields, even at the height of the honey flow, and that a worker makes about 31 honey-gathering trips before its wings fail and it dies. Furthermore, a bee's good name for continued labor must rest upon its good intent rather than upon the amount of its contribution to the stock of sweets in the hive. Its production is infinitesimal, although the result of a colony working together may be considerable. A bee in the height of the season lives but six weeks—three weeks as a nurse bee and during that time succeeds in sucking from flowers 800 milligrams or eight-tenths of a gram of nectar. But mark the word nectar—nectar is not honey, but only the raw material, and must be condemned by from 40 to 60 per cent before it finally becomes the sweet to which we are accustomed upon our tables.

One Thousand for One.
To mention these facts in other terms we can say that for every pound of honey bought in a grocery store over a thousand bees have been forced to work for their entire lifetime. It is the sum total of their endeavors in life.

In order to collect a pound of honey a single bee would be compelled to fly a distance greater than the circumference of the earth. A worker flies on an average of a mile for a load of honey. Were a pound of honey to be transported in a single act of movement it would take 30,000 workers to draw the tremendous load. In comparison with these facts it is all the more remarkable when we are told that a colony of bees in the apiary of A. S. Morgan of Vermilion, S. D., produced 616 pounds of comb honey in one year.

Watching Them Work.
How were the scientists able to collect data upon the various individuals in the hive, especially since a bee is more like another bee than the proverbial peas in a pod? A hive was placed upon a scale and it was then easy to compute the individual contributions of each bee. Especially constructed electric working doors registered the entry of each worker. By painting a tiny white mark upon the thorax of a certain number of bees it was possible to count the number of honey gathering trips made by a worker before being overtaken by death. The number of bees is computed by weighing them separately, there being 5,000 individuals in a pound.

Commercial Bee-keeping.
The Bee Culture Laboratory is mainly concerned with problems less interesting, but more practical to the commercial bee-keeper, of which there is an increasing number in the United States, particularly in that great territory west of the Mississippi River. There apiculture is a well-recognized business and 200 colonies will produce a carload of honey and make a good living for a bee-keeper. The same may be done in many other parts of the country, particularly in New York and Michigan. Canada is also an excellent country for the bee-keeper for, contrary to popular belief, the profitability of an apiary depends not upon a southerly location, but upon a continuous series of nectar producing plants. Thus New York follows California as a honey producing state, with Texas third. Commercial bee-keeping is possible in almost every state in the Union in certain restricted locations. There are numerous bee-keepers producing three or four carloads of honey a season and one famous apiarist in Georgia has upward of 10,000 colonies and owns a factory for the making of his own beehives.

Many Erroneous Ideas.
Bee-keeping as a science has taken tremendous strides in the past 50 years, but popular ideas upon the subject have failed to keep pace. People, generally speaking, are still extremely ignorant of bees and even honey, and have many wrong ideas.

In speaking of bees it is impossible to forbear from mentioning the name of A. I. Root, a Medina, O., manufacturer of coin silver jewelry, who, becoming interested in a stray swarm of bees, made himself the greatest beeman the United States has ever produced. He enabled the ordinary bee-keeper to secure the improved hives and devices being invented by the specialists. By the time of his death, in 1923, his name was familiar to bee-keepers all over the earth, and his business was a million dollar institution.

Different Varieties.
Honey, strange as it may seem, is almost unknown in millions of American homes, even though we produced about 300,000,000 pounds of the sweet in a year's time. Most people do not know that there are between two and three hundred different varieties of honey, ranging from the pure white product of the fireweed of California, to the nearly black comb from the buckwheat fields of New York and Pennsylvania. Every one of them has a different taste and aroma.

Many people are afraid to buy extracted honey because of fear of adulteration, not knowing that the product of the hive is of the most difficult of things to duplicate or even to dilute. The bee, in manufacturing the sweet, condenses it to a point beyond that possible in a laboratory, and it is consequently very hard to make a mixture that anywhere approaches the density of honey.

Not Easily Adulterated.
The impression that honey is often impure is probably due to the rapidity with which pure honey turns to sugar, a condition, however, which can readily be overcome by placing the container in warm water.

Honey being a natural sweet, is immediately absorbed by the blood without any further digestion, while cane sugar, for example, has to be broken down by the digestive juices of the stomach. On account of this it is in great favor with baby doctors, who frequently employ it as a medicine. Indeed, honey is not the only product of the apiary featuring in the Materia Medica. Numerous people have permitted themselves to be stung as a remedy against rheumatism, and there are many claims of cures. In fact, the Homeopaths have a remedy which they call Apis Mellifica. It is used to combat similar disorders. It is made by killing honey bees, extracting their stingers and shaking the drop of poisonous secretion into a glass containing sugar of milk.

A Big Business Now.

The great growth in the business of keeping bees is perhaps best illustrated by the growth of certain related industries. The production and sale of "package bees," as they are technically known, is a recent development in the industry and because of seasonable conditions centers in Alabama, Texas, Mississippi and Georgia.

Bees begin the rearing of their young a great deal earlier in the Southern States, which means that a colony which has dwindled during the Winter to 15,000 or 20,000 bees, reaches Summer strength of from 60,000 to 75,000 just about the time the beekeeper in the North is about to begin operations. These surplus insects brought into the world to gather the nectar of the fields are placed in wire cages and shipped to beekeepers all over the United States and Canada. They are used to strengthen weak colonies or given queens and permitted to build themselves into new colonies. Since bees hatch out at the rate of about 5,000 a day in the midst of the honey flow, the kidnaped populations are soon replaced.

Breeding Queens.
The breeding of queens, which is too technical a subject to enter upon in this article, is another industry which, while carried on in every state in the Union, can perhaps best be accomplished in the same states favored by the package men. Since a queen mates but once in her life, a purely mated mother will continue to produce nothing but full-blooded children during her entire existence.

Thus the introduction of a pure Italian queen into a hybrid or black colony will cause the entire hive to be populated with the pure yellow Italian bee. As the inferior types die the more desirable honey-gatherers take their places.

Usual Prices.
There are a number of breeders who produce and market 10,000 queens in a season, and a leader in the business finds purchasers for from 30,000 to 35,000. The prices range from $1 to $5, so a successful queen man may enjoy a very satisfactory income. His profits, however, are often lessened by the sale of large lots to package men, who include them in their shipments.

Breeding queens from record honey-producing strains bring more, $5 being a common and $10 not an unusual price.

Women Bee-keepers.
Bee-keeping, strange as it may seem to those entirely ignorant of the business, is a hobby for a great many people. Those who have come to know that bees are not quite so dangerous as is commonly believed, are oftentimes entirely fascinated by the mysteries of the hive. They lose all fear and open up their hives without wearing veil or gloves and what is more, they rarely get stung. Boys and girls frequently raise bees, particularly under the guidance of the various farm clubs. Women find apiculture congenial. Miss Mathilde Candler is one of the important commercial bee-keepers of Wisconsin, while Helen Steiner, another commercial bee-keeper, is secretary of the Oregon Bee-keepers' Association. Helen Wightman of Los Angeles, is editor of the Western Honey Bee.

Bees may be found almost everywhere, even in the midst of cities. A department store owner in an Eastern city used to have the roof covered with colonies. A Greek professor in a Connecticut secondary school has his attic filled with glass-cross-pollination, which interpreted, means that a variety like the Winesap must not only be pollinated with Winesap pollen but with pollen of the Grimes Golden as well. Knowing these things, is it any wonder that certain German scientists declare that the value of the bee to the fruit grower is 11 times what it is to the bee-keeper? In the United States, due to the abundance of nectar-secreting plants, the estimate is considerably less, although the apple growers of Washington and Oregon are so convinced of the pollinating value of the bee that they frequently pay from $4 to $5 for the privilege of having colonies in their orchards during blossom time.

Two hundred girls employed in the corset factories of Londonderry, Ireland, have recently been thrown out of work because women generally have discarded the old-fashioned tight stays.

Part 21—Guarding The Canal

THE CHIEF OBJECT OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT IN CONSTRUCTING THE PANAMA CANAL WAS TO ENABLE A SINGLE FLEET OF WARSHIPS TO GUARD BOTH OUR ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC COASTS.

THE CANAL ZONE WAS MADE A MILITARY RESERVATION UNDER A GOVERNOR, WHO REPORTS TO THE PRESIDENT THROUGH THE WAR DEPARTMENT. THE CANAL ZONE BELONGS TO THE GOVERNMENT, AND THOUGH A PRIVATE INDIVIDUAL CAN LEASE GROUND THERE, HE CAN NEVER OWN IT.

THE ENTRANCES TO THE CANAL ARE GUARDED BY MIGHTY FORTS AND BATTERIES, WHILE THE MILITARY POPULATION NUMBERS ABOUT 10,000 SOLDIERS. THE LARGEST OF THE DEFENCES IS FORT ALBANY, OCCUPYING 25 ACRES ON THE PACIFIC BREAKWATER.

Red And Black Quintet Will Try For Third Victory Of Season At Mars

GAME WILL OPEN W. P. I. A. L. LEAGUE

New Castle High School basketball team will try for their third victory of the season on Friday night at 8:00 o'clock when they play Mars High in the first W. P. I. A. L. engagement of the season. The game will be played at Mars. The local quintet has been practicing for two weeks for this game and Mars will find the local in "tip top" form.

While little is known of the strength of the Mars team, reports state that they will be one of the strongest contenders in Section Three of the W. P. I. A. L. New Castle started the season by topping Wilkinsburg in two games. Whether the defense that has baffled the Wilkinsburg team will puzzle the Mars cohorts remains to be seen.

The defense Coach Bridenbaugh has developed seems to be getting lots of attention from other coaches who will oppose the Red and Black team this season. Practices of the last few days show that the High quintet is beginning to harmonize just like a team in mid-season.

They are beginning to know just where to pass the ball on different plays. The locals will leave Friday for Mars.

Who And What In 1929 --- October

By JACK SORDS

Sports Review 1929 --- October

By NORMAN E. BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN, Central Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Baseball monopolized the attention of the sport world the opening half of October and then was shoved off the stage by football. The overwhelming victory of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics over the Chicago Cubs was a surprise.
OCTOBER 5.—Glenna Collett, leading woman golfer, drew the spotlight in the full before the world's series, by winning the national women's golf championship—her fourth, and giving her the distinction of being the first woman to accomplish this feat. She defeated Mrs. Leona Pressler, sister of the famous golfer, in the finals at Birmingham, Mich.
OCTOBER 8.—The Athletics won the first game of the world's series, 3-1. Connie Mack surprised the baseball world by starting the veteran

Howard Ehmke, who had won but half a dozen games all year. Ehmke set a new world's series strikeout record by fanning 13 of the Cubs, topping the fanning record of Big Ed Walsh, made in 1906, by one.
OCTOBER 9.—The Athletics took second game, 9-3. Earnshaw and Grove striking out 13 Cubs.
OCTOBER 11.—The Cubs won the third game, 3-1, at Philadelphia, bunting two hits and a pass with an error. Earnshaw, coming back, fanned 10 batters. Bush, for the Cubs, allowed nine scattered hits.
OCTOBER 12.—The Athletics made it three out of four by staging a record-breaking rally in the seventh inning, scoring 10 runs and collecting 10 hits in that round. Final score, Athletics 10, Cubs 8.
OCTOBER 14.—The Athletics won the series by coming from behind in the ninth inning, with the count to 0 scoring three runs and winning, 3 to 2.

OCTOBER 12.—In the three most discussed games of the week-end, Georgia's eleven defeated Yale 15 to 0, Nebraska defeated Syracuse, 13 to 6, and Notre Dame triumphed over Navy, 14 to 7.
OCTOBER 19.—California's eleven defeated Penn, 12 to 7, in intercollegiate game. Lom, California star, ran opening kickoff 55 yards to place his team in scoring position and later in the game hauled a pass for the winning count 2 to 0, scoring three runs and winning, 3 to 2.
OCTOBER 26.—Mickey Walker successfully defended his middleweight title in 10-round bout in Los Angeles by decisively defeating Ace Hudkins, having the latter nearly out on several occasions.

Pitt-Trojans Battle Today

Southern California Favored To Defeat Pitt By At Least One Touch-down

By GEORGE T. DAVIS, International News Service Special Correspondent.
PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 1.—Spectacular was the setting and reverberant was the welkin today as Pittsburgh and the University of Southern California prepared to come to grips in the annual New Year's day football classic at the historic Pasadena Rose Bowl.

Stern as judgment day in the background were the blue bills of Pasadena while on two sides of the bowl barren cliffs presented a menacing outlook.

Trojans Favored.
But in the natural pit that encloses the revamped stadium the Trojans of Southern California were ready to face a yawning "Pitt" into whose depths have fallen every foe on eastern gridirons.

Early in the day crowds started swarming into the stadium, presenting a riot of holiday color akin to the nearby festival of the Tournament of Roses. Approximately 70,000 spectators were expected to be in the stands by the time the kickoff at 2:15 o'clock.

Indications of a clear day with a dry fall changed the odds at the last moment slightly in favor of Troy and some wagers were made that gave the Trojans a six-point margin.
It was the speed and versatility of Southern California that had won the confidence of the fans—even though strength of the Panthers was admitted on all sides.

East-West Teams Battling Today In Coast Game

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—Football teams representing the east and the west today were prepared to line up in Kezar Stadium this afternoon for the all-important intersectional game for the benefit of the Shrine hospital for crippled children.
Several all-American aces will be featured. They include Broncho Nagurski of Minnesota who will start as fullback for the eastern team; Cannon of Notre Dame will play left guard. Slight of Purdue is at left tackle. These men present two defensive aces and an offensive man who will be hard for the west team to handle.

Despite the seemingly impregnable line-up of the eastern outfit, the western team, coached by Percy Loe of the Olympic club, is favored to win.

TWO GAMES AT "Y" TONIGHT

Boosters Will Play K. Of C. Team Of Beaver Falls; Church Teams In Prelim

Two games are on tap tonight at the "Y" floor. The first game will start at 7:30 o'clock. The Central Christians meet the Robert Wilson Memorial church team of Butler in the first tilt, and the New Castle Boosters meet the K. of C. team of Beaver Falls in the second game.
The contest should be interesting, as both opponents for the local teams, are rated high in this district. The Butler church team that plays here is leading the league at Butler.
The Beaver Falls K. of C. team with a number of ex-high stars in their lineup will be here to battle the Boosters, and they are confident of making a good showing.

Westminster Tops Adrian

Westminster College Basketball Team Opens Home Season With 33-18 Victory

Westminster college's 1929-30 basketball team pried off the lid on the home season last night with an easy 33 to 18 victory over Adrian college of Michigan. The Titans were never in danger of losing the early lead that they established.

At the end of the first half the Lawther coached machine was something like 16 points to the good. Delahanty, Crowell and O'Donovan led the attack for the blue and white. "Jinx" Hamas also played good basketball, caging two field goals. Coach Lawther used a lot of substitute material and found them to be good.

Guards Look Good.
So close a guarding game did Delahanty and Rice play that the visitors were held to four field goals, and it had not been for their fine work in dropping 10 out of 14 fouls the invaders would have been rather badly outclassed.

Friday night of this week the Westminster team will go to Grove City for a game with the Thorn coach. The Titans are undefeated in several pre-season games this year.

Lawther has a fine combination and it looks like Westminster again this year in the Tri-State.

The summary:
Westminster 33 Adrian 18
O'Donovan Schoonover
Considine H. Packett
Crowell Fisher
Delahanty G. Reed
Rice G. Anderson
Field goals—Kocher, Planer, Hamas 2, W. Packett, Delahanty 3, Crowell 3, O'Donovan 2, Rice, Anderson, Reed, Fisher.
Fouls—Westminster 7 out of 18, Adrian 10 out of 14.
Referee—Brickley.

Police After Thugs Near Poultry Pens

Thieves Make Raid On Poultry Pen Of Local Market
This Morning, But Get No Haul

Chickens And Turkeys In Crates Scattered As
Thugs Make Hasty
Retreat

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 1.—Residents in the vicinity of North Fifth street were alarmed this morning by the sounds of pistol shots coming from the region of the poultry pens of a local meat market. William Keyes, a resident in the Evans building heard the quacking of the disturbed hens and called the police who rushed to the scene in time to frighten away the would-be marauders. Shots were fired at their retreating forms but they made their escape in a truck parked in a nearby alley, the police state.

If the marauders had succeeded in their plans, there would have been a dearth on the local market of New Years Day fowl, and many would have had to be content with sauer kraut and spare ribs, which is said to be a lucky dish to serve on New Years Day.

The intruders worked quickly and silently, but owing to the nature of the "goods" which set up a loud cackle they were not able to haul away a single capon, but fowl of all sorts and sizes were scattered about the vicinity in crates. Twenty-five chickens were found in a box on the lawn of J. B. Kirl, near the scene of the attempted robbery.

Of course when the shots were fired, the residents immediately thought of bandits and much excitement reigned for a while. But the squawks and cluckings finally died down to a sorrowful gurgle as the poor hens realized probably that one fate was as good as another as far as they were concerned, being out of the "fire" into the frying pan anyhow.

Searchers Brave Death in Icy Wastes

Siberian wastes and waters that have for a month and a half concealed the fate of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic fliers, will be thoroughly searched by the Coast Guard Cutter Chelan, pictured above (as seen from the air), bound for Seward, Alaska. On the first lap of the search for the missing fliers the carrying three airplanes which will fly over the icy waste in search for Eielson. (Upper right) Floyd Bennett, one of the galaxy of American aviators, and a peer among Arctic adventurers, died of pneumonia, contracted while flying to aid the trans-Atlantic Bremen fliers on Greenland Island, Labrador. (Lower) Miss Adeline Eielson clasping the hand of Captain "Pat" Reid, and wishing him god-speed in his search for her missing brother.

(International Newsweek)

BEHIND the grey veil of the Northern mists right into the heart of an Arctic Winter, airmen are preparing to battle the elements in their search for the lost flier Carl Eielson, who together with his mechanic, Earl Borland, has been missing in the Siberian region of North Cape since November 9. Eielson, who is head of Alaska Airways, took off in a Hamilton all-metal plane to fly to the rescue of the trading ship Nanuk, reported icebound in the desolate North Cape region. The vessel carried a cargo of valuable furs.

Since November 9, Eielson and his companion have vanished into the silence of the Siberian icefields. His plane was provisioned for thirty days, but rescue parties are hopeful that the two men are still alive. And so for the first time airmen are to risk the hazards of Winter flying over the Arctic basin, where the temperature is already 94 degrees below zero, in their errand of mercy. United States airmen must await the arrival of planes before they can start their search. It is thought best that the planes be rushed direct by air. The Aviation Corporation of Canada is taking part in the search and has announced that it will spare no expense and endeavor to overcome every obstacle to successfully carry out the search. The party is headed by Captain Oakes with the famous pilot T. M. "Pat" Reid acting as flight commander. Three Fairchild monoplane will be used, each fitted with full Canadian Winter flying equipment. The expedition is very hopeful and consider it a

African Belles Give Ideas For Jewelry Styles

By LYLE ABBOTT

International News Service Special Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 1.—African belles will furnish a new vogue in jewelry next year if America accepts the novel sketches brought back from the Dark Continent recently by Edwina Horn feature film.

Miss Booth has returned to Hollywood from the jungles and where she studied the queer ornaments affected by the native women during hours she was not before the camera. Harry Carey, the star, brought trophies of game heads.

One of Miss Booth's sketches shows a collar design of copper wire, strung together to match a wire outlining the ears.

Anita Page, blonde Metro-Goldwyn Mayer star has promised to do something constructive for the tired businessman in moments not necessarily devoted to relaxation and amusement.

Miss Page is planning to try in the spring to create a vogue for inexpensive wash dresses of printed organdie and sprigged cotton, that will have all the fetching appeal of more expensively materialized patterns.

In this laudable move, Miss Page will naturally favor her own style of girlish beauty, but expects to have the support of the man who pays and pays and pays.

What the well dressed movie horse will wear: Ken Maynard's Tarzan will have a new $2500 silver mounted saddle, the Christmas present of Mrs. Maynard. Ken will saddle up thus expensively while making his personal appearances next season.

Chiffons, flaming like a sunset, or blue like winter skies—Shimmering tulle, blossoming like a garden—Fish nets trailing with all the grace of the mantillas which adorned the señoritas of former days—These are fashions choice for mid-lady's wardrobe as indicated by the latest costumes worn by the leaders of film fashiondom.

Never have evening costumes been so gorgeous. Never have they been so designed to enhance the charm of women, already leaders in the realm of style.

Each one is a masterpiece in itself—individual, unusual, unique, and yet, all have one characteristic, and that is—They are long!

Their skirts without exception trail on or within an inch or two from the floor in places, if not all around. Sometimes a train from the back or the side makes this contact. Sometimes the entire skirt descends to cover all but a demure slipper tip. But you can be certain, if the gown is smart, it carries out in effect the vogue for long, trailing lines.

Helen Keller Denies Adopting New Faith

Still Follows Swedenborg, She Says—Respects Teaching Of Baha-U-Llah

NEW YORK Jan. 1.—Miss Helen Keller has written to Rev. Paul Sperry president of the general convention of the New Jerusalem, reaffirming her faith in the doctrines of Emanuel Swedenborg. Miss Keller denied a report that she had been converted to the Persian religious cult of Baha-U-Llah.

"It is most important to me that I should not be misinterpreted in my religion," Miss Keller wrote. "As you know, since I was 16 years old I have been a strong believer in the doctrines of Emanuel Swedenborg. Why should I change my faith, since it opens my spiritual eyes to all that is beautiful and noble in the thoughts and beliefs of men, and makes my dark, silent world sweet and livable?"

Miss Keller attributed the incorrect report of her conversion to the misconstruction of an address she delivered before a gathering of the New York Historical society at the Ritz-Carlton on December 1.

"I have a profound respect for the teachings of Baha-U-Llah, just as I have for the noble thoughts of all great prophets and seers," wrote Miss Keller. "But it never occurred to me that any one would think I had 'adopted the Persian religion' because I was speaking to Bahai followers."

South African Cops Will Use Tear Gas

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 1.—Tear gas will shortly form one of the normal weapons of the South African police force.

Although this fact has not yet been made public, it is expected to cause considerable discussion here, and undoubtedly reflects the government's attitude to the recent native disturbances and the possibility of their recurrence.

Large stocks of tear gas, it is learned from authoritative sources, have already been secretly assembled in Capetown, and large supplies of the gas are due to arrive shortly from abroad.

Special units of the police will be trained in the use of the gas, and will be attached to the normal flying squad. All police headquarters in the Union will be equipped with reserve supplies of this gas.

Tear gas was first used by the police during the recent native disturbances at Durban.

Elks Annual New Year's Dance Is Lively Affair

Merriment In Full Sway At Dance In Elks Ballroom,
New Year's Eve

Everybody thought it wonderful—and they were far from wrong. The Elks New Year's Eve dance went over big and fresh little 1930 came in with a bang.

Laughter, snappy music and couples dancing through screens of long, bright streamers, balloons dancing around at the heads of the dancers—that was the how New Year's Eve was spent by the members of the Elks club and their families and friends.

To top it over in fine shape, a delicious lunch was served shortly after 11 o'clock. There was steaming hot coffee, sandwiches and pop.

This dance takes place annually, last night being the 7th New Year's dance.

A large crowd was gathered in the ballroom—Sheriff Jack Lewis, Deputy Johnson and Soldo, could be found among those present.

Walter DeArment was the master of ceremonies and was kept quite busy calling orders for Paul Jones dances, and giving awards for various dances. Two fruit cakes were awarded Miss Effie Stickle and Pete Capitola for novelty dances. Later Mr. DeArment gave to each woman at the ball, a tiny metal pencil.

At 11 o'clock there came a pause in the music, the lights were dimmed and Clark Buhel, the Exalted Ruler, said a few words as a toast to the Elks members who are in the "Great Beyond." After the orchestra played "Auld Lang Syne" dancing was continued.

Everyone thought it wonderful—and it was.

New Expedition To Africa Set

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—A new zoological expedition of the Field Museum of National History soon will be on its way to Africa in pursuit of the "honey bird," the giant sable antelope and many other rare specimens according to announcement from the museum.

The honey bird leads men to believe so that it may eat the grub and larvae after the men have removed the honey.

The expedition will be known as the Vornay-Land Kalahari expedition and is financed by Arthur S. Vornay of New York who will lead the expedition jointly with Herbert Lane, New York. The expedition probably will get underway from London near February 1.

The search will take the expedition to the Kalahari desert where only Masawara nomads live these nomads being described by Vornay as "living skeletons who eat locusts and snakes."

Philadelphia Mint Is Speeding Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—The Philadelphia mint has been forced to a twelve-hour day to accelerate coinage to a pace needed to keep up with the demands of business, Robert J. Grant, director of the Mint announced today.

Mr. Grant said that on Dec. 12, the Philadelphia mint alone coined 1,866,800 pieces, including quarters, dimes, nickels and cents, the largest single day's output in the history of the service. To this was added the coinage at the Denver and San Francisco mints.

"It is usual for the mints to be on an overtime basis at this time of year to meet the seasonal demand," Mr. Grant said. "However, this extraordinary acceleration of coinage indicates the more than usual demand of the banks for a volume of coinage to meet the requirements of business."

Students Must Quit Begging For Rides

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 1.—University of Georgia students and co-eds can no more hitch hike from and to classes. If they do they will be liable to a fine of $25.

The city council, spurred on by numerous complaints from residents of the city that the students were becoming a nuisance by flagging motorists from every corner, has passed an ordinance prohibiting any one from soliciting an automobile ride within the city limits.

Any person who hails, or even gestures to a passing motorist will be liable to prosecution under the new law.

Among the complaints by local residents was that children of elementary and high schools were taking up hitch hiking practice patterning after the college students.

Senator Metcalf Urges Probe Into Coast Guards Act

Killing Of Three Rum Runners By Coast Guards Draws Fire From Senator

HOPE TO PROVE JUSTIFICATION

(International News Service) PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 1.—The searching investigation into the killing of three of the crew of the rum-runner Black Duck, off Newport, R. I., may be amplified if the demands being made today by Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, are granted.

Senator Metcalf has urged another probe, possibly by congress, if the inquiries now underway by other agencies do not clearly determine whether or not coast guards were justified in firing upon the Black Duck.

Charles Travers, lone survivor of the Black Duck's crew, whose charge that the guards issued no warning inspired the senator's statement, was brought here from Newport and arraigned before a federal commissioner, bail of $10,000 was supplied and he went to his home in New Bedford, subject to call before the coroner's inquest in Newport on Thursday.

Soviets To Punish Tartar Communists

(International News Service) MOSCOW, Jan. 1.—One of the most startling of numerous recent conspiracies against the Soviet government, was discovered within the ranks of the Communist party itself. While the investigation is going on, nine members including the famous Tartar "Sultan" Galiev, an old revolutionary, have been expelled from the party as a preliminary move toward more drastic punishment.

The "Sultan" who apparently took Lenin's words about the freedom of oppressed peoples too literally, wanted to establish an independent democratic republic out of that million square miles of territory which is now united in the USSR as Tukestan, Kazakstan, Tartaria and Bashkiria, stretching along the Chinese-Mongolian frontier. This republic he dreamed of calling Turanuk. It was to be only one state in a great "colonial international" comprising Persia, Afghanistan, India, Mongolia and Soudan China.

The plan apparently had thousands of supporters. "Izvestia" the official organ of the government demanded only that the leaders be severely punished, but that the movement for independence be crushed out of the minds of the people. "It is a bourgeois counter-revolutionary program directed against the Communist party and the Communist International," the newspaper said.

His Lecture Leaves Audience In Fog

(International News Service) BERLIN, Jan. 1.—Professor Albert Einstein held a lecture before the Kaiser Wilhelm Society for the Promotion of Science in Berlin, explaining his theory of relativity.

After the lecture, it was announced a debate would be held on the subject.

When the time came for questions, however, there were no questions. Even the scientific leaders of the society were not sure that they had quite understood.

Einstein explained his theory very simply. The theory of relativity, he said, combined space and time into a fourth-dimensional space, because all happenings are conditioned by space and time.

Tomb For Bourdelle In Ancient Cemetery

(International News Service) PARIS, Jan. 1.—The last windmill standing in Paris may shelter the remains of Antoine Bourdelle famous French sculptor.

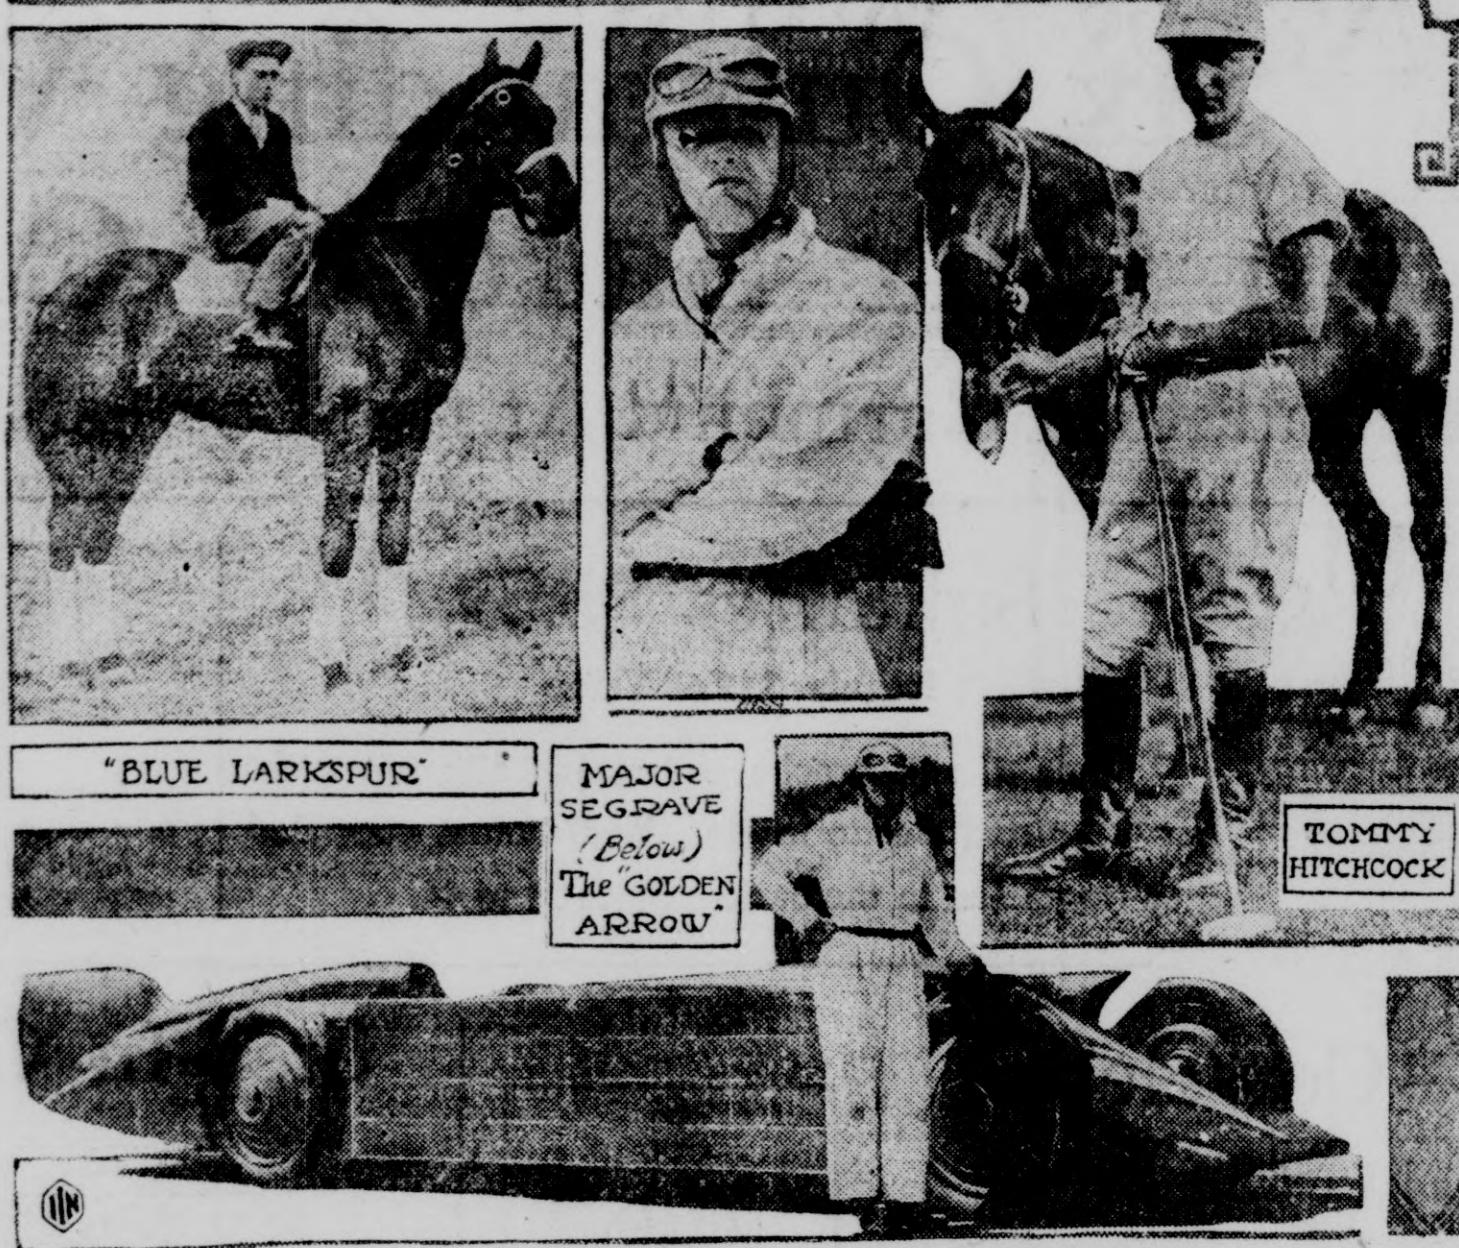

Shorn of its sails and clad with a thick growth of ivy this windmill has been a cafe and a florist shop. Since it was built more than three centuries ago the cemetery of Montparnasse has been built around it.

At the request of the sculptor's widow a committee is considering the possibility of making it a tomb for Bourdelle.

Young Author Lost In The Sahara Desert For A Week

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Lost in the dreaded Sahara Desert for a week, Eugene Wright, 25-year-old author and traveler, reveals his victorious battle against thirst and a blinding sandstorm in a letter to his parents here from Belima.

"My Dear Family," he writes, "Thank God we have arrived here at this dry stream bed. There is only dry heat and shriveled trees, but they are beautiful things to us. The camels are settled down, too tired and worn out to eat. They are mere skeletons of their former selves, and will surely die if we do not find water for them tomorrow."

"It is already five days since they have drunk water and two days since they have eaten. Ahmed and I have only about two quarts of water left. But we have arrived here and will reach a well tomorrow noon. It may be filled with sand but at least we can dig for water."

"Last night I thought all was over for we were lost. Two days previous we had awakened to find ourselves enveloped in a great dust storm of fine sand that practically hid us from one another. But we had to keep on because we had to find water, and could gain nothing by remaining quiet."

Home Is Factor Best For Child Says Professor

(International News Service) BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 1.—"The home is still a powerful factor in the development of the child," declared Professor W. Linwood Chase, professor of education at Boston University's School of Education.

Professor Chase made this comment on the recent statement of Dr. Edward Glueck regarding the employment of unmarried women teachers in the schools.

"There must be some definite study of the emotional lives of teachers, and a development of a criterion for judgment before any result of the effect of the teaching of married or unmarried teachers on children can be judged," said Professor Chase.

No Way to Measure
At the present time there is no definite standard of measurement which will show the exact results of this kind of training on children.

"The home at the present time, is stronger than the school, for the time spent by each child in the school room is but a small part of the day. How is one to know what reactions in the child are definitely due to home or classroom training?"

"Some results can be traced to definite sources, but workers are now trying to connect the school and the child so that the situation in school will become a more natural one, with

"The sun came up like a young leaf, pale and lifeless; the day was like a stormy moonlight night, but worse as there were no stars to guide us. At noon, the Touaregs admitted that they were lost."

"At night we had missed the 'Oued' where we should have stopped, and had marched 17 hours. The next day we marched another 17 hours due South. Not a blade of grass. Only rocks and sand and we could not see more than a quarter of a mile in any direction."

"That night the Touaregs and my guide prayed for hours and put on their festive clothes. They were preparing for the end but the Arabs take death very calmly. They say: 'Thousands have died in the Desert before us.' We had only two full water skins among us, seven in all, and in this terrific heat a man will die of thirst in three or four hours if he does not drink water."

"But it is all over now. The day dawned clear and after a fifteen hour march we found this pasture and the Touaregs say there is a well about five hours away."

"From here on we have water every two or three days, and at infrequent five days further on, we will find pools and streams of water and great valleys with tropical vegetation."

less emotional strain as one of the definite results.

Help of Teachers
When more is known about the emotional life of teachers, of all kinds and types of personalities, and a criterion of measurement of their affects on the children in the classroom has been established, there may be some solid grounds upon which to tread in this highly speculative field."

Professor Chase declared that the knows of nothing at present which is done to show any emotional effect of the teacher on the child except in the case of problems of discipline. His wide experience includes a comprehensive range of teaching and supervising from the rural district in Maine to the famous Horace Mann School previous to his affiliation with the faculty of Boston University's School of Education.

Navigation On Arkansas River To Be Improved

(International News Service) ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 1.—Barges may be plying up and down the Arkansas river within the next few years, with Arkansas City as a stopping place.

Such is the theory of A. C. Trumbo of Muskogee, Okla., director of the Arkansas River Navigation association and spokesman for those who are sponsoring and directing the movement which again would place towboats and barges on the Arkansas river.

See Friend in Hurley.
The appointment of Patrick Hurley of Oklahoma as secretary of war is believed by Trumbo to be an important factor in nearing the day of river traffic on the Arkansas.

Secretary Hurley, according to Trumbo, has found inland waterways one of his biggest official duties. As an Oklahoman, he is familiar with the existing conditions in regard to Arkansas river navigation. Secretary Good depended on Hurley's judgment on flood control and his knowledge and friendliness to the state obviously clears the way for immediate action, Trumbo believes.

The state, he said, is capable of providing sufficient tonnage to make navigation profitable. Pay loads, both up and down the river, will be available, according to Trumbo.

Is Navigable.
The Arkansas river is classified by the war department as a navigable stream, he said, and there is a noticeable absence of petty politics in the movement for river navigation.

The immediate aim of those sponsoring the navigation restoration movement is to get Secretary Hurley to place a separate division of engineers on the task of preparing the Arkansas river for traffic.

Clarence B. Douglas of Tulsa, with offices in Washington, and who is devoting full time to lobbying for the project, has expressed himself as believing this will be done in the near future.

Comptroller May Replace Auditors In Mercer County

Increase In Population May Result In Auditors Being Done Away With

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 1.—The audit of 1930 may be the last in the history of Mercer county. It is possible, say those learned in the law, that following the expiration of the term of the present board of auditors that the county will have grown in population as shown by the 1930 census where a comptroller will have charge of the county expenditures and make an audit of assets and liabilities each year.

The present board has two years to serve yet. There is a general opinion that they cannot be thrown out of office but under the law the office will be abolished for the county will easily reach a total of 100,000 population which is the requisite.

Once this pinnacle of growth is reached there are other changes that will be made in providing more help for certain of the county officials. It is learned that those who supported the plan to secure an extra law judge for the county several years ago will bring the matter to the attention of the 1931 legislature calling attention to the big growth in population that the county is expected to show. Some place this figure as high as 130,000 while more conservative estimators keep the figure down to 11,000. The 1920 census shows the county within 6,000 in round numbers of the goal.

England Makes Foreign Money

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Making money for other countries is a regular business of the British government.

Not only the British colonies, but Rumania, Esthonia, Czechoslovakia, Finland and even soviet Russia have their currency made in England. The Royal mint also gives many countries advice on coinage.

Many of the orders received by the mints are not easy to execute. Egypt recently placed a large order for gold coins, which though larger than the earlier Egyptian currency, had to resemble it in other respects. Much research was necessary to obtain the peculiar greenish tinge of the old coins instead of the faintly reddish hue of the British gold coinage.

When the Spanish mint was reorganized, a commission came from Madrid to study the British mint, and the new machinery was made in Britain.

Quarter Surely Good, Daddy Just Cooked It

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1.—Police revealed today that a chance remark by a girl, seven, led to the seizure of a counterfeiting plant in South Philadelphia and the arrest of three men and a woman.

The child, Alvera Piscionette, whose parents are among those under arrest, made the remark to a butcher who had protested that a quarter she offered him for purchases was counterfeit.

"It must be good—my daddy just cooked it," the girl was quoted as having replied. The butcher summoned police and Federal agents, who raided the house.

Those arrested were Pompilio Piscionette and his wife, Angela; Frank Ficondetti, a boarder at the Piscionette house, and Lorenzo Rastelli of Brooklyn, N. Y. The authorities said they had confiscated a complete outfit of counterfeiting apparatus and $150 in false quarters and half-dollars. Rastelli was held in $15,000 bail and the other two men in $10,000 each. The woman was allowed to sign her own bail bond. She is ill.

It will be observed that Senator Hiram Johnson isn't hanging anybody who had anything to do with this late windfall of publicity.—The Akron Beacon Journal.

Panic Caused Many Deaths In Theatre Fire In Scotland

Bodies Of Youngsters Piled Six Deep In Exits Of Theatre; Gruesome Sight

Death Toll In Fire At Paisley Scotland Is Placed At Seventy-Two

(International News Service) PAISLEY, Scotland, Jan. 1.—Panic—that fearborn demon which has doubled the horror of so many tragedies—was mainly responsible for the appalling loss of life in the moving picture house fire which killed seventy-two children here Tuesday.

With the tragic bodies of the little victims as mute evidence, observers saw that hysteria and fear combined to heighten the catastrophe.

Many of the dead children presented sights awful to see, with their little faces bleeding from deep gashes obviously caused by finger-nails and boot-heels inflicted by others in their mad rush for the exits.

It was ironic that the film being flashed upon the screen as a special New Year's Eve treat for the children was the American picture "The Crowd."

For a few moments after the fire broke out in the operator's projection room the children had killed themselves by the force of their own numbers.

Piled Six Deep. Six deep they were found piled against the doors and windows, many of them horribly trampled, many of them dead, many of them unconscious from suffocation.

At least a dozen of the dead showed no signs of injury, indicating that carbon monoxide gas, resulting from the burning film, had caused their deaths. But among those found jammed helpless in the doorways were many whose faces were torn and gashed by the mad rush of little feet toward the exits.

Most of the deaths and serious injuries occurred at the bottom of two main staircases leading to the street level from the balcony. The children apparently rushed panic-stricken for the main exits when the fire broke out, forgetting all about the emergency doorways and fire escapes provided just for such emergencies.

Rum Smugglers Given Hearings

(International News Service) SALISBURY, Md., Jan. 1.—Four of the twenty-four alleged rum smugglers seized near Ocean City yesterday with 2000 cases of fine liquor valued at $255,000 were arraigned here Tuesday before U. S. Commissioner L. T. Hearne and ordered held in $50,000 bail each for further hearings.

They gave their names as: Samuel Hill, George Bolton, Eddie Murphy, and Edward Miller, all of Philadelphia. The other prisoners were freed in nominal bail.

U. S. Marshal Reid of this city served additional warrants on a number of other men alleged to have been mixed up in the rum plot bringing the total number of persons seized in connection with the smuggling plot to 36. Two airplanes and three fast coast guard cutters meanwhile carried out a futile search of the Eastern Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware coasts for traces of the Canadian vessel reported to have brought the rum cargo up from the West Indies.

Witchita Gas Man Has Singing Mouse

(International News Service) WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 1.—This city is putting in another claim for fame as a versatile city—a very unusual claim too.

A singing mouse has been discovered by F. D. Long, employed at a filling station here.

Long recently was sitting alone in the office of his gas station when suddenly he heard a joyful trilling from a mysterious source. Upon investigating, he happened to glance at the window sill and there sat a mouse, warbling a song.

Long told friends of his singing mouse and at first they did not believe him but upon hearing with their own ears, a song sang by the mouse, they heartily agree that everything Long said is true.

Soviet Trade Union Oust Bonus Takers

(International News Service) MOSCOW, Jan. 1.—Half a dozen employees of the German shoe polish and cleaning fluids concession, Stock and Company, have been ousted from the trade union with reprimands "for losing their class faces" because they accepted the company's bonus for faithful service.

The trade union leaders held that bonuses were merely tips and bribes given for and in anticipation of harder work. Directors of the company assert that the bonuses were given out by surplus profits to merited employees whose labor was minutely regulated by the trade union.

Total Trade Of Close To Ten Billion Revealed By Survey For 1929

MOST GRATIFYING TO MANUFACTURERS

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH, International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Another record breaking foreign trade brought American sales abroad to about $5,300,000,000, from $800,000,000 to $900,000,000 more than purchases in other countries, the commerce department announced Tuesday. That means a total trade of close to $10,000,000,000.

"When adjustments are made for changes in the buying power of money this record decidedly surpasses any attained even during the war and the immediate post-war boom," William L. Cooper director of domestic and foreign commerce declared.

"This gratifying result was not brought about by any temporary causes. It marks the continuation of a movement practically unbroken since 1921 and 1922. The movement reflects the steady growing efficiency of American industry in production and of American merchants in pushing sales."

Buying Power is Higher.

"It also indicates the high and advancing power of the people with the consequent increasing demand for those raw materials and foodstuffs. Many of a luxury or semi-luxury character which our own country is unable to produce at all or only in insufficient quantities."

The foreign trade advance over last year was from three to four per cent for exports and eight per cent for imports.

In the movement of gold, contrasted with the heavy loss in 1928 which reached a half billion dollars there was a substantial net import this year.

The gain in the export was confined in the main to the first four months during which foreign sales were nearly $300,000,000 greater. In the remaining eight months trade showed less increase or actual decreases compared to 1928.

Wisconsin Professor In Research Work

(International News Service) PASADENA, Jan. 1.—Dr. Hugh C. Wolfe of the University of Wisconsin recently arrived here to do research work at the California Institute of Technology.

For a definition of Dr. Wolfe's place in the world of science it is necessary to use his own words: "My method of research consists of the representation of particles participating in collisions by their relativistic four-vectors of energy and momentum—that is by the four dimensional vectors having as their components the three spatial components of the momentum of the particle and a fourth component whose magnitude is that of the energy of the particle divided by the speed of light, this also having the dimensions of momentum."

Cubist Paintings Only Emotional Life Ideas

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The newest thing in art may look like a splash of color in the good old cubist style—but it isn't that. These paintings are really studies in persons emotional lives. They're "psychological portraits."

Miss Katherine S. Drier, of New York, is the mother of psychological portraits. An exhibition of the new art has been opened in Brooklyn. Attracting considerable attention is Miss Drier's "study" of Ted Shawn, the famous dancer. The painting bears no resemblance to a human being, but is supposed to express Shawn perfectly.

Cairo Monuments Subject Of Controversy

(International News Service) CAIRO, Jan. 1.—Uninformed restoration of some of Cairo's most famous monuments has raised a serious controversy here.

The most interesting and important mosque, the Mosque of Ibn Tulun, is in the throes of extensive alterations and it is this which has started the present raging battle between archeologists and the committee of conservation of Arabic monuments.

Bo-Broadway
by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Frank Parker Stockbridge, wife of the eminent scrivener, is a collector of antique furniture.

When you collect antique furniture you have to make it a life work. Nothing else must count, that is, if you ever hope to annex stuff that's going to stun your guests. And stinging one's guests is the only logical excuse there is for amassing much eaten mahogany. You mustn't even permit a mere sordid detail like money to intervene between you and your hobby.

Mrs. Stockbridge, while a discriminating connoisseur in the matter of heavy furniture, is possessed of a good much native thrill ever to be a really great collector.

Thus she attended an auction last summer up in New England. The descendant of an early settler had suddenly been yanked to Abraham's Bosom and the heirs were disposing of the household furnishings. Among the articles was a beautiful dining room table—of value not alone as an antique, but because of its charming simplicity and beauty of design. It was an exquisite thing.

When Frank's wife had bid as high as $350 her sense of economy asserted itself and someone else got the old piece.

The other day Frank was nosing through the Hampden Galleries in quest of an old bulseye mirror. Hampden's is the swankiest mirror corral in town. Just as he was leaving, he spotted the table in question. How long had they had it? Only a few months. Where did they pick it up? They were honest about it.

"My wife bid on that table at that auction," said Frank. "I'll tell you how much she bid if you'll tell me how much you're asking for it."

"The table is not for sale," he was told. "It was disposed of this morning for $1,000."

Frank—one of the kindest men living—says he'll never tell this story to The Missus, no matter what the provocation.

PSYCHOLOGY
Speaking of antiques and antique dealers: Duveen Brothers, Purveyors of Artistic Blah Blah to Parkavenoo, maintain a shop on the west side of Fifth avenue up near 57th street. New York's shopping Holy of Holies. On the other side of the avenue, almost across the street from Duveen Brothers, where Charles and Joseph park their pups under Circassian walnut desks, is located the establishment of Charles of London. Duveen Brothers deal in paintings, statuary and such stuff. Charles of London specializes in antiques. Both shops are run by the Duveen Boys, who are psychologists first, and after that, connoisseurs.

THE BEGINNING
Before relinquishing this subject: One of the most successful dabblers in out-of-date stuff is a lad a list of whose clientele reads like a page out of the Social Register. He started years ago as a junk dealer with a place a few doors from Koster and Bial's, the famous old music hall in 24th street.

About that time Koster and Bial brought to the United States a Spanish dancer named "Carmenita," who was shrewdly advertised. The elite began to flock to the Wild Oat Casino and one night a Bradstreet brother passing the nearby junk shop chanced to spot a rare old chair crowded in with a lot of rubbish in the junk shop window. He purchased the chair next day for a song and to his friends advertised his find. There followed a rush of collectors to the place and the astute junk dealer soon realized that while there may not be more than a thin blue line differentiating antiques and junk, here's heap more money in the former. Forthwith he branched out as an antique dealer and that is the genesis of one of New York's famous Salons de Sap.

The dealer's motto: "Give it a pedigree and write your own price tag."
